Heart Attack Hits Vanier

OTTAWA (UPI)—Governor-General George Vanier, a silent but central figure on Canada's political scene, is recovering at his home following a mild heart attack suffered the morning after the general election Monday.

VANIER
... mild seizure

Word of Gen. Vanier's illness was not disclosed until last night, when it was learned he has cancelled all public engagements for the next six weeks.

However, Government House sources stressed the 74-year-old major-general was quite capable of carrying on the official duties of his office.

IF NECESSARY

These, they admitted, could include a visit from Prime Minister Diefenbaker if necessary and swearing-in of a new cabinet if Liberal leader Lester Pearson is called upon to form a government.

The prime minister was not available for a statement on the illness of the white-haired general who has captured the affection of Canadians during his term of office.

Mr. Pearson expressed "great shock" at hearing of the governor-general's heart attack.

Douglas: We'll Work This Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Rule changes to increase Parliament's efficiency were proposed Wednesday night by the leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties and by a leading Liberal.

Both T. C. Douglas of the NDP and Robert Thompson of Social Credit also expressed hope for stability of government despite the uncertain results of Monday's federal elections.

MORATORIUM

"I think we're going to work this out," said Mr. Douglas.

Mr. Thompson added that there should be a moratorium on elections and a "working arrangement" in Parliament.

They appeared on the CBC television network program Newsweek along with Walter Gordon, re-elected in Toronto, and considered a likely choice for the finance portfolio in any new Liberal government.

JOBS FIRST

Questioned about the initial program of a new Liberal government, Mr. Gordon said the priority would be given to measures to stimulate the economy and provide more jobs.

Liberal Leader Pearson's campaign promise to set up a municipal development bank would be one of the first pieces of legislation to be brought into Parliament, Mr. Gordon said.

UNTIL WINTER

"If we don't do it soon—within the next few weeks—its effects will not begin to be felt until next winter."

In brief statements concluding the 30-minute interview program, Mr. Douglas stressed the need of measures to provide jobs and Mr. Thompson said one of the key requirements is leadership in Parliament.

Missing Nuclear Sub Passed This Earlier Test

Slick 'Means Disaster'

BOSTON (UPI)—Capt. Blish Hills, commandant of the first U.S. Naval District, here, said Wednesday night an oil slick indicates the sub Thresher met with disaster.

"The oil slick is the thing that's the tipoff we have a disaster here," he said.

He said the fact the oil slick was in the vicinity of the vessel's last known position indicated to officials it came from the Thresher.

NEVER A RESCUE

Capt. Hills said if rescue operations were possible a diving bell could descend to about 1,000 feet. But he said this was merely the capability of the bell and there had never been a rescue at that depth.

The Thresher is believed to have gone down in waters about 8,400 feet deep. Hills said the lack of communication with the Thresher virtually eliminated all hope for the men aboard.

He said it had not been ruled out that the oil slick might have been released by a tanker that might take any measures he saw fit to attempt to communicate with potential rescuers.

Under emergency conditions, he said, a sub commander might take any measures he saw fit to attempt to communicate with potential rescuers.

But this likelihood was "slim."

Tragic Chronicle

Loss Worse Than War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The worst recorded submarine disaster, the wartime sinking of the USS Argonaut by the Japanese in 1943, cost the lives of 102 men—28 fewer than are aboard the missing Thresher.

Two other U.S. submarines have gone to untimely ends in New England waters north of the area where the search for the Thresher was going on. These were the Squid, which sank off Portsmouth, N.H., in 1939 with a loss of 26 lives, and the O-9 which sank in a test dive off Maine in 1941 with 33 fatalities.

Other major submarine disasters and their death tolls:

1955—British sub Sidon, exploded off Portland, England; 12.
1960—Turkish sub Dumuipinar, collided with a Swedish ship in the Dardanelles; 81.
1962—French sub La Sibylle, lost off Toulon; 48.
1961—British sub Albatross, English Channel; 75.
1959—British sub Truculent, Thames Estuary; 65.

1958—French sub Phenix, off Indo-China; 63.
British sub Thetis, sunk in Irish Sea; 99.
Japanese sub 163, Bungo Channel; 91.
1953—British sub M2, off Portland Bill, England; 60.
1951—Russian sub No. 9, Gulf of Finland; 35.
1950—French sub Ondine, off Portugal; 43.
Italian sub F14, in Adriatic Sea; 31.
1957—U.S. sub S-4, off Provincetown, Mass.; 40.
1955—British sub M1, English Channel; 60.
U.S. sub S-51, collided with steamer City of Rome off Black Island; 34.

Bold Pilot Lands in Tunnel

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A crippled plane with a nifty pilot aloft through a 115,000-volt power line, thrashed along above a busy highway and zipped into a mountain highway tunnel to land Wednesday after its engine failed over the Rocky Mountains.

Pilot Fritz Hansen, 33, of Cheyenne, Wyo., escaped with cuts and bruises. Passenger Walter Johnson, 38, of Aurora, Colo., was injured.

The engine of their Cessna 172 failed while they were flying at 1,500 feet over this mountain city 43 miles west of Denver.

Hansen said he had been flying for 13 years without incident.

Unnatural Anthem

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—There was an embarrassing silence when the visiting mayor of Peterborough, England, asked Lakefield Preparatory School boys to sing O Canada.

They couldn't. So they sang God Save the Queen instead.

In response to questions, Anderson said there was "absolutely no chance of a nuclear explosion nor any likelihood of nuclear contamination or danger to navigation" in the accident.

He said he had checked with Vice-Adm. H. G. Blockover, the navy's nuclear propulsion expert, on this.

As far as sabotage was concerned, the admiral said it was

What happened to the Thresher was a mystery as the night went on.

Anderson said a court of inquiry under Vice-Adm. Bernard Austin, president of the Naval War College, had been appointed to investigate.

In response to questions, Anderson said there was "absolutely no chance of a nuclear explosion nor any likelihood of nuclear contamination or danger to navigation" in the accident.

He said he had checked with Vice-Adm. H. G. Blockover, the navy's nuclear propulsion expert, on this.

16 Lost At Sea

REYKJAVIK (AP)—Gales whipped up mountainous seas off Iceland and reports reaching here Wednesday night said six fish boats have gone down with losses of at least 16 crew members.

The spring storm struck with sudden fury after months of mild weather and caught the fishing fleet off guard.

British System

Two Cabinets Pearson Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Confident he will soon be asked to form a government, Liberal leader Pearson said Wednesday he plans to begin fashioning his ministry this weekend.

This delicate task of matching talents with the need for geographical and religious balance in the cabinet likely will extend into next week, aides indicated.

INNER, OUTER

It is understood Mr. Pearson will attempt a new governmental structure, involving a larger number of portfolios and at the same time an "inner" and "outer" cabinet.

This would be comparable to the British system that he is known to regard highly.

FIVE AND 10

The inner cabinet could mean a working policy group with Mr. Pearson and between five and 10 of his top ministers.

Diefenbaker

And Waiting

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker flew back to Ottawa Wednesday and said he intends to "meet the cabinet and watch events."

"I will determine on the basis of coming events the course to be followed," he said. "You will have to wait for the eventualities to realize what they are."

Mac-Powell Profit 'Embarrassing'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An often bullheaded former logger made a quiet pitch Wednesday for the "loyal group" of employees of Mac-Millan, Blomel and Powell Ltd.

Gordon Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, suggested to company chairman J. V. Clyne at the company's annual meeting that Mac-Powell consider a share-purchase plan for employees.

"Our profits have risen to almost an embarrassing level," Mr. Gibson said. "We need as many shareholders in B.C. as possible. I suggest a distribution of shares to our employees, the most loyal group of employees any company ever had."

Mr. Clyne said the company had no intention at present of acquiring any large company.

The company had given a great deal of study to employee profit-sharing plans and continued logging was company policy.

He said he felt no embarrassment at Mac-Powell's profits—$36,081,800 in 1962.

Lost Three Days in North

Americans' Courage Kept Boy Alive

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—A 12-year-old Indian lad, lost in heavy bush for three days in wilderness country near the B.C.-Yukon border, says the survival of two Americans for more than 40 days without food gave him courage.

Andy Lutz of Upper Lind said in hospital: "I was sure hungry, but I heard about these people being without food for so long and I knew I could last."

The youngster, treated for frostbite of two toes, referred to the fantastic 40-day survival of Ralph Flores, 42, and Helen Klaben, 21, after a light plane crashed in northern B.C. about 3,000 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The two Americans were en route to San Francisco from Fairbanks when the crash occurred Feb. 8. They were rescued March 25. The last 40 days they had nothing to live on but melted snow water.

The Lutz boy became lost early last week while rabbit hunting with his two dogs. He was found by an RCMP search party late Wednesday and brought to Whitehorse for treatment last Thursday.

News of his rescue came to light Wednesday.

The youngster said from his hospital room: "I wasn't scared. I've been hunting since I was a little kid."

The first night, Andy said, he lit a fire with a match he had. He later put it out, swept the ashes aside and built a spruce bough bed above the spot.

He didn't think he would need a fire the next day because he expected to find his way home.

But he failed, despite hearing a truck and trying to find the road by walking out in a large circle from the camp. The next day he went in the opposite direction without success.

"Then I got smart with myself. I backtracked myself (the third day), and that's when they found me."

Andy said the first night one of his dogs, King, slept beside him and helped to keep him warm. His other dog, Bronco, left for a while, but returned later.

The second night both dogs slept with the boy and kept him warm.

Andy, who wore a parka, heavy pants and moccasins, said Bronco ate his lunch when he put it down to chase a rabbit the first day out.

Last Wednesday he shot a squirrel with his .22-calibre rifle and ate it raw. "It was sure funny to eat and it sort of made me kinda sick."

The boy was cared for by the same nurses at Watson Lake who treated Flores and Miss Klaben when they were rescued.

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—The typhoid epidemic at Zermatt can be considered ended, the Swiss federal health office announced Wednesday. It said there had been no fresh cases in the epidemic-stricken resort in the first week of this month.

"probably a remote possibility" that would be looked into. He added there had been no structural problems with the Thresher-class nuclear sub.

Anderson said the navy was considering bringing the deep-diving experimental vessel Trieste from the west coast to try to locate the Thresher.

SHALLOW TESTS

But he pointed out that, if the sub was down in 8,400 feet of water, it would be impossible to bring it to the surface. The Thresher was accompanied by the submarine rescue ship Skylark when it left Portsmouth. In its trials, the sub made shallow and intermediate diving tests Tuesday.

The actual depth limit of the Thresher is secret, but the navy said it was supposed to dive Wednesday to beyond 600 feet in tests scheduled to continue for six hours.

At the end of that time, which would have been sometime after noon PST, the submarine was to ascend near and said, "I am only comforted by the news it is a mild one and he will be able to carry on with his official duties."

Mr. Pearson added that "like every Canadian I hope he will be returned soon to full health and strength."

LONG CAREER

Gen. Vanier, the nation's second native Governor-General and the first French-speaking, was appointed by Mr. Diefenbaker in 1959. It was an added tribute to the general's long and distinguished career in military and diplomatic service to his country.

In the First World War Gen. Vanier lost a leg while serving with the famed "Van Dons"—the Royal 22nd Regiment. He was the regiment's commander for three years in the 1920s.

He was a Canadian delegate to several international conferences before and after the Second World War and had attended the League of Nations assembly in 1930.

From 1944-53 he served as ambassador to France before retiring from the diplomatic service. At the time of his appointment as Governor-General, Gen. Vanier was a member of the Canada Council and a director of the Bank of Montreal.

Through the traditions of his position, as the Queen's representative in Canada, Gen. Vanier has been forced into the spotlight in recent months. As he most officially opened and dissolved Parliament—the latter by proclamation—his whereabouts and visitors were of prime concern during the five-day parliamentary crisis in February which ended in the defeat of the government and dissolution of the 25th Parliament.

Varicose Vein Surgery Helps, Also Warns Pampering Needed

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I read the letter from E.D. about the varicose vein operation. I had one three years ago and am glad I did. My legs feel so much better, not to mention their appearance.

I have some pressure at times, but not too often, and I think if I watch my weight the other veins will be all right. I hope E.D. goes ahead with the operation. —Mrs. P.C.

Dear Doctor: I had my veins stripped eight years ago. They have returned in one leg only, with a small ulcer. Will I need another operation? I am 78. —HAROLD S.

As I've pointed out before, stripping (removing) varicose veins doesn't absolutely guarantee that there will not be further trouble. You may never have any more; however, after a period of years, you may.

Mrs. P.C. is smart. She realizes that remaining veins can become varicose, so she is taking precautions. Watching her weight is important. I presume that she also tries not to remain on her feet for excessively long periods at a time.

WARNING

A person with varicose veins has had warning: the veins just aren't as rugged as average. They need pampering. So get in the habit of sitting (or lying) down periodically. When you sit, use a foot stool or another chair to relieve the pressure on those veins and give them a chance to recover a bit.

In the case of Harold S., he's had eight years of relief. The stripping has been worth it. Note that the new trouble is only in one leg. These veins that were stripped are gone permanently. These are other veins, becoming varicose. This in turn means impaired circulation that lets ulcers form and makes it difficult and often impossible to heal them.

So my answer would be yes, the doubtless does need another operation.

Rules Tighten Drug Control

OTTAWA (CP)—The health department's food and drug directorate has been given greater control over the manufacture and distribution of drugs to make them as safe as possible for Canadians.

The new controls are set out in amendments to the food and drug regulations of the Food and Drugs Act, which was amended at the last session of Parliament to provide for increased federal jurisdiction in the field of pharmaceuticals.

One new regulation compels manufacturers and distributors to set up a system of control to permit a complete and rapid recall of any lot or batch of drugs from the domestic market. Another provides for the testing in Canada of imported drugs before they can be sold to the public.

Canada's prescription drug industry said in a statement here that it approves of the new regulations.

Retiring Next Fall Adenauer Announces

BONN (Reuters)—Chancellor Adenauer announced Wednesday night that he plans to retire this autumn.

The 87-year-old chancellor said in a West German television interview: "To prevent any doubts arising, I have stated so often that I would offer my resignation in October or November, 1963... and what I said still goes."

It was the first time Adenauer had committed himself publicly to retirement, although spokesmen for his Christian Democratic party had repeatedly quoted him as saying that this fall he would leave his post of 14 years.

NATO Force Up to Rest

LONDON (Reuters)—United States Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and his British counterpart, Peter Thorneycroft, agreed Wednesday that the fate of the proposed NATO nuclear force is in the hands of the other NATO countries.

They said the United States and Britain have done their utmost to promote the force. The fate of the project lay in the hands of the other members of the alliance.

During their talks, McNamara and Thorneycroft "found themselves in general agreement on the approach to the subject of the NATO nuclear force," the defense ministry said.

'We'll Work This Out'

"The Liberal party has the program and in Mr. Pearson we think we have the leader to put the country on its feet again," Mr. Gordon replied.

All three indicated a need for revision in Parliamentary procedure to make the process more efficient.

In his opening statement, Mr. Douglas said his NDP group is prepared to sit down with the Liberals and try to work out "a program which we could accept," as well as an overhaul of Parliamentary rules and procedure.

Asked whether the New Democrats would support acceptance of nuclear warheads for defense equipment as proposed by Mr. Pearson, Mr. Douglas replied: "Certainly not."

The NDP leader reiterated his statement that his party would "use every legitimate means" to prevent Canada from becoming a member of the nuclear club and accepting nuclear warheads.

Wind-Littered Woods Fearsome Fire Peril

OLYMPIA (AP) — Washington is bracing itself for what could be its worst summer fire season since the early 1950s, state land commissioner Bert Cole said Wednesday.

Billions of board feet of timber blown down during the Oct. 12 windstorm has littered forests with tons of debris that could burn "with savage and virtually uncontrollable intensity," he said.

Eichmann's Man Behind Umbrella

LUGANO, Switzerland — Erich Rajakovich — alleged murderer of 110,000 Dutch Jews, including Anne Frank — was found in a private villa hiding behind an umbrella and is to be deported to Austria to face murder charges.

The charges were brought Monday by Austrian Jews against Rajakovich, an Austrian citizen, who vanished the same day from his home in Milan, Italy. He headed the Nazis' Dutch-Belgian Jewish special department and was called Adolf Eichmann's right-hand man.

LONDON — Prime Minister Macmillan squashed speculation on his possible retirement by saying he will lead the Tory party to victory at the next election. Macmillan, 69, has been prime minister six years.

GENEVA — The 17-nation disarmament conference adjourned for Easter week following a two-month session which Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin described as "a complete failure."

NEW YORK — Employees of the Joseph Markowitz Inc. clothing firm, impatiently awaiting their week's pay, looked out an office window to see the payroll carriers arrive in a taxi cab. As the shocked workers watched helplessly, thieves grabbed the $10,000 and fled.

VANCOUVER — A tip of an untested nature allowed RCMP to capture Edward Beaver, 27, of Calgary, one of two men who escaped March 5 in the first over-the-wall break in 25 years from the B.C. penitentiary. He was found in the bedroom closet of an east-end home. Still at large is William McCord, 25, of Calgary.

PLYMOUTH, England — Gerald Fogarty was fined £50 for stealing liquor from the bonded warehouse where he was foreman. In eight years, he drank 34 gallons of sherry, 20 gallons of port, 83 bottles of whisky, 46 bottles of gin.

bottles of rum and 34 bottles of brandy — and told the court "the drink became a problem."

LONDON — Twenty-four Tory MPs revolted against the government decision to deport Chief Anthony Enahoro to Nigeria where he faces a seven-year prison term for treasonable felony. But the deportation was upheld although the Tory majority was sliced to 56 from 100.

AGUSTA, Maine — A recreational-area operator wrote economic development commissioner Lloyd Albee demanding a total eclipse of the sun be held earlier, than the scheduled July 20, "because my best business is in July."

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill received his new American passport from U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

ORILLIA, Ont. — Donald Lament Jack of Oakville, Ont., is 1962 winner of the Stephen Leacock Medal for humor for his book Three Cheers for Me, published by Collier-Macmillan Canada Ltd.

LOME, Togo — The provisional government set up after the assassination in January of President Sylvanus Olympio said it had uncovered a plot to overthrow it and had arrested some leaders, including labor minister Nana Kambui, Olympio's right-hand man. Coup chief was said to be Olympio's interior minister, Theophile Mally, in exile in Nigeria.

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Bulletin president Robert Taylor and city editor Earl Taylor were found in contempt of court for declining to name the source of a story about alleged city hall scandals to a grand jury.

Reds Bar 'Hot Line' From Arms Report

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union Wednesday blocked a move to include the projected Moscow-Washington "hot line" communications link in a disarmament conference program report to the United Nations.

The Soviet veto came in a conference session in which delegates rejected a U.S. proposal that the 17-nations talks go into a four-week Easter recess. The conference finally decided to recess for one week until April 17 after neutrals complained "too much valuable time" would be lost in a long break.

Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the progress report to U.N. Secretary-General Thant should avoid mention of the "hot line" because the Soviet and the U.S. have not worked out details of the emergency link.

The Russians agreed Friday to the U.S. proposal to set up a direct communications link between Washington and Moscow to reduce the risk of nuclear war by accident. Some delegates were reported to have expressed fear that Russian refusal to include the agreement in the progress report indicated Moscow might back down on it.

The U.S. delegation, however, appeared unwilling to press the issue. U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle said U.S. would not insist on inclusion of the "hot line" in the report against the wishes of the Soviet delegation.

Three Nations Merge In New Arab Republic

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt, Syria and Iraq have agreed to merge in a new federal state to be called the United Arab Republic with its capital in Cairo, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry, president of Egypt's executive council, said Wednesday night.

Sabry said a meeting will be held here this morning to lay down the basis for a constitutional framework for the federal state, with the findings presented at another meeting to day.

Egypt and Syria were linked as the United Arab Republic in 1958 but Syria broke away from the U.A.R. three years later.

The new federal state would have authority for foreign affairs, finance, economy and defence and would have one flag — the black, white and red flag of the U.A.R. with three stars. The new U.A.R. would have a total population of about 37,000,000.

Dutch Scorn German Pact

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Crisis of "shame" and "Anschlus" rose from the public galleries Tuesday when the lower house of the Dutch parliament approved 102 to 8 a treaty providing for about 3,000 German troops to be stationed in the Netherlands. The demonstrators cried out that more than 100,000 Dutch Jews died in Nazi camps.

PRINCETON (CP) — The Si-milkameen Indian band has demanded $50,000 cash for the 195-acre Memorial Park. Failure to pay will result in the eviction from the park of the village, which has spent $25,000 on the park, the band says. July 31 is the deadline.

Strangler Foiled

BOSTON (CP) — A pretty co-ed survived a strangulation attempt Tuesday night as she returned to her dormitory from a luncheon visit to a nearby church. Her assailant fled after she lost consciousness and as a northeastern university male student ran to her aid.

Miss Sarah Bower, 18-year-old student of Leland Powers School, was under treatment today in hospital for severe neck bruises.

There have been eight unsolved strangulations of women in this area in 10 months.

Not Alone

IT WAS A GRACIOUS gesture on the part of the people of the United States to bestow what to them is the most precious of their possessions—American citizenship—upon Britain's great wartime prime minister, Sir Winston Churchill.

In a simple but heart-warming ceremony at the White House Tuesday, President Kennedy lauded Sir Winston as a man whose courage, faith and zeal for freedom were indestructible.

He then said: "In the dark days and darker nights when Britain stood alone—and most men save Englishmen despaired of England's life—he mobilized the English language and sent it into battle. The incandescent quality of his words illuminated the courage of his countrymen."

With no thought of diminishing the impact of the president's stirring tribute nor attempting in any way to detract from his high personal opinion of the world's greatest living statesman it would not now be untoward to point out that Britain "in the dark days and darker nights" did not stand alone.

On the contrary, throughout those bloody months the American president so vividly recalls, the whole British Commonwealth of nations stood shoulder to shoulder with the mother country.

At the very time, in fact, when Sir Winston's words burned their brightest, Canada's army was at the ready to repel the expected Nazi invasion of the British Isles, while its navy and air force took the war to the enemy itself. At the same time men from Australia, New Zealand, India, South Africa and Rhodesia were fighting side by side with British soldiers, sailors and airmen in repelling the Axis forces in the Mediterranean and Africa.

It was perhaps the memory of those days when the Commonwealth alone faced the Fascist threat to the freedom of the world that prompted Sir Winston to answer President Kennedy with these words: "I reject the view that Britain and the Commonwealth should now be relegated to a tame and minor role in the world. Our past is the key to our future, which I firmly trust and believe will be no less fertile and glorious."

The Defaulters

THE TURNOUT of voters in the federal elections in the Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings might, by comparison with the norm be considered satisfactory. In the former constituency 78.62 per cent of those eligible to vote did so, and in the latter, 80.3 per cent.

Yet in both instances two potential voters in ten failed to cast a ballot. One in ten, perhaps, could legitimately be excused on grounds of illness or other inadvertent circumstances compelling absence.

But it is a sorry fact that for each of these another apparently just could not be bothered to exercise a right so vital to the proper functioning of democracy, and defaulted in duty. Such citizens could be said to have voted, by staying away, against being represented in the governance of the country.

One might wish admittedly that in local affairs the record were similar. In municipal elections a turnout of 50 per cent or less is common. But even if 80 per cent is good, it is not good enough.

It Takes Just One

VICTORIA more than most cities can boast an exceptional charm for visitors that comes from within its people. The comments of tourists over the years leave no doubt of that. The special quality is not just friendliness of the welcome-stranger, common in variety to which Americans are accustomed. It is an extra measure of warm and natural politeness, a heritage of most Vancouver Island communities, combined with a pride in the city and its surroundings that translates into a genuine desire that visitors shall enjoy them to the full.

One must doubt, therefore, that Victoria needs an annual "hospitality school" of the kind that the Canadian Tourist Association proposes should be set up across Canada in advance of the tourist season for the purpose of lecturing waitresses, sales clerks, taxi drivers, parks employees and the like in courtesy, and of acquainting them better with the main attractions of their cities or towns. The great majority of Victorians in contact with the travelling public need no instruction in how to be helpful or how to be nice.

What every proprietor and every manager interested in the tourist business should have in mind in considering staff as the busy season approaches, however, is that it takes but one exception to spoil a visitor's impression.

If the comparative few who are habitually thoughtless, self-occupied, cranky or just plain rude could be weeded out, seldom would a tourist leave Victoria recalling it mainly—to himself and his friends—as that place where the toasted sandwich was ice-cold, where we couldn't get any service because the waitress was only interested in talking to her boy friend, where the man got me so mad trying to be funny about our money.

And so many places are remembered that way when a tourist gets home.

In Dual Harness

ONE man at least managed to get the best of two worlds this week—Red Kelly of the Toronto Maple Leafs. He shone in his dual capacity of politician and hockey player.

Not only did he win re-election to Parliament by the largest margin of all candidates outside Quebec, but he continued to star for his Toronto club on the ice.

It is a tribute to his management of two widely divergent activities that instead of falling between two stools he should keep occupancy of both.

Mr. Kelly broke new ground when last June he was elected to the Commons, the first athlete of major stature to do so while in active sporting harness. He condenses his dual success.

Currently he is one of his hockey club's stars in the Stanley Cup playoffs, and the Maple Leafs must have noted his re-election with great satisfaction. This would free his mind from conflicting loyalties and spur him anew in pursuit of the second honor possible to him.

The Maple Leafs are favorites to capture the playoffs, and undoubtedly Red Kelly will be in the van as he sets his sights on the double accolade.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...
By TOM TAYLOR

AS THE century turned two small boys grew up in Ontario, some 100 miles apart, one a year-and-a-half older than the other.

Midway in this century, grown to maturity and power, they clashed; not once but three times.

Twice John Diefenbaker came off best; the third time Lester Pearson outdid his rival.

There on Monday was a battle of giants; giants who outshone all others in their parties and in the country at large. On the national scene their impact alone was what counted.

No other Conservative or Liberal entered the picture in major fashion.

Perhaps never before did two men dominate an election to such an extent. Beside them all others paled.

A WEEK ago I mentioned that some hundreds of candidates would meet their Waterloo.

The disappointment in many cases would be crushing.

A world of anticipation gone awry, a prospective career perhaps shattered before it began.

We should have sympathy for the three out of every four who didn't quite make the parliamentary grade.

And, for the married among them, for their wives too.

Who knows what feminine plans were mentally set afloat as they thought of setting up house in Ottawa; with what excitement and interest they looked forward to being at the nation's capital.

A whole new social world spread out enticingly before them.

And then, as the votes were counted, perhaps with agonizing slowness, to have their hopes dashed completely.

Elections after all, though the result be tabulated on paper, are affairs of flesh and blood, of human aspiration and ambition.

And they are compounded of sadness as well as of joy.

Have a heart, then, as you think of those who, striving with all their might, yet failed in their endeavor.

What was it Winston Churchill, a veteran of political struggles, said of elections?

"I have fought up to the present fourteen contested elections, which take about a month of one's life apiece. It is melancholy when one reflects upon our brief span, to think that no less than fourteen months of life have been passed in this wearing clatter."

Melancholy did not curb his appetite. He went on after this to contest about half-a-dozen more.

Take heart therefore, you defeated candidates. You live to fight another day.

THE quiet election board as I told you about let me down. It did not carry out my predictions.

My margin of errors, of all seats and all parties in cross count, was about 57. Parous indeed.

I mentioned there were three methods to employ in this titillating guessing game; to fill in the results as one thought they would be, to let hope supply the figures, or to shut one's eyes and dash into a list of numbers with a pin.

My biggest error was in trying to combine all three methods. I got the outboard answer I deserved and it most decidedly wasn't a yes.

Such is what happens when one tries to trick fate three ways at once.

Washington Calling

By MARQUEZ CHILDS

Wrote a personal letter to the Sultan of Morocco thanking him for his help in suppressing piracy in the Mediterranean. He could not have known that he was establishing a precedent to be followed by every successive president.

In personal correspondence with heads of government and heads of state President Kennedy seems to have outdistanced all his successors. With at least a dozen rulers the president has been carrying on a warm and often even intimate exchange of letters.

The letters—to Macmillan, Khrushchev, Nasser, Sukarno, Nehru, Ayub Khan and several of the new African heads of government—are in most instances not concerned with specific problems involving the United States. They contain, according to those who follow and expedite this correspondence, no suggestion of "deals" which zealous critics often suspect in personal diplomacy.

Instead they range over the whole field of statecraft. Often the correspondents write in remarkably frank terms of their domestic concerns. In a recent interview President Nasser of Egypt spoke of his in-imate exchange with President Kennedy which ignored the clichés of normal diplomatic exchange.

While this correspondence will be a treasure trove for historians many years hence, it is today a carefully guarded secret. President Kennedy has convinced his pen pals that they can trust the complete privacy of these exchanges.

Premier Khrushchev is said to have written with remarkable frankness and this frankness has been matched by the president in his letters.

One reason the Kennedy correspondence has grown so rapidly is the continuing procession of foreign visitors. In his last three years in the White House President Eisenhower received 38 heads of state or heads of government.

In some instances they are one and the same. In his first two years in office President Kennedy had 50 government heads as official visitors. And the number scheduled for 1963 is already more than 20.

Wanting to talk frankly with a visitor about mutual problems, the president often finds himself later in a developing correspondence coming out of the discussion. This has been especially true of the African visitors. The close personal relationship he has established with many of the new African leaders, based with all the troubles of new and precarious independence, is considered a major asset of American policy in this area.

The presidential correspondence is carefully co-ordinated with the State Department. The president often consults Secretary of State Dean Rusk about an outgoing letter and, in the instance of Khrushchev, Llewellyn Thompson, special assistant to the secretary on Soviet affairs. Sometimes drafts are submitted for the president's consideration.

But he is insistent on his own style of expression. This goes so far as to include what State Department drafters call boiler plate—routine congratulations or expressions of formal interest in this or that important event. There were at the outset rather sharp rebukes for those who thought boiler plate would not require the presidential okay. The personal stamp is said to be on all the correspondence that goes from the president's desk to the far corners of the earth. The letters are forwarded in various ways. If timing is considered important, they are delivered to the ambassador representing the head of government to whom the letter is being sent. Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin, for example, on receipt of a K-to-K letter has it translated into Russian and encoded in the embassy for immediate dispatch to the Kremlin through the embassy's own channels.

When there is no urgency the president's letter may be sent by cable to the American ambassador in the country for formal transmission to the recipient. Again if there is ample time the original draft with the president's signature may be sent by courier direct to the head of government as a special mark of the president's esteem.

In 1959—the year of Khrushchev's visit and of Eisenhower's 11-nation trip—281 letters went out to heads of government under his personal signature. Last year President Kennedy signed 335 such letters.

Washington in his letter to the Sultan said, "We're not a rich nation... but hope sometime to be useful to our friends." It was a prophetic hope.

(Copyright 1963 by United Features Syndicate, Inc.)

He demands no less than all the land between the Fish River and Zululand. To the South African ear, the words Fish River are a startling echo of the 19th century and its endless bitter wars, in which the whites sought to establish the Fish River as a boundary against the blacks. Here it was coming up again on the issue of the first Bantustan.

Nor was that all the startling news. The chief also blandly served notice on the government that he is against its policy of endorsing out the Xhosa from the Cape and sending them back to their Transkei homeland. And while traders in the Transkei were told bluntly that their trade monopoly would soon be ended.

For good measure the chief also lashed out at the United Party opposition and at all other opposition groups, and in general created by his statement enough embarrassment to the government to bring the prime minister to his feet. "Chief Makhama," said Dr. Verwoerd, "was provoked." That may be but it does suggest that there may be trouble ahead for the government.

Is there perhaps something in the name "Kaiser" that gives the chief his aspirations for more living room?

Apart from the chief's statements, the Transkei debate has been notable for the policy statement made by the leader of the United party, Sir de Villiers Graaff.

He is a middle-of-the-road party. It is equally against apartheid and complete integration. "But," said Sir de Villiers, "at present the United party policy is that Africans should be represented by eight white members in the Republic Parliament."

Later, he anticipated, limited representation of Africans by Africans would come about after consultation with the electorate. These, he felt, were sign posts on the way to the United party policy of race federation.

That may be the United party policy, but whether the Africans will, in these rushing times, be willing to accept this gradual change is another story. The semi-independence even of a Bantustan is a much headier brew.

On the other hand, by no means all Nationalists are happy about the Bantustans. There are many who, while firm supporters of Dr. Verwoerd in other respects, are almost as worried as the United party at the idea of a ring of even semi-independent Bantustans around South Africa. Perhaps this is the reason why one Nationalist speaker in the debate pooh-poohed the idea of their ever having full independence.

In his view, the Bantustans would be a kind of confederation of states with—the implication was—the Republic as "Baas" or boss. Is this perhaps the start of a shift in attitude? Dr. Verwoerd is in a dilemma. To the world outside he must present his native Bantustans as semi-independent African states which ultimately will be independent. But for internal consumption within South Africa he must still cling to the idea of some measure of control over the native states.

Programs is slow and even in the most enlightened areas—including Canada—incidents of discrimination based on color, do still occur. In less enlightened areas we cannot force old ladies to walk in the gutter or allow our precocious children to address educated and cultured negro gentlemen as "boy" (to use two of the very mildest of our offensives) and at the same time expect our religious and our social and our political professions of fellowship to be accepted without somewhat skeptical reservations. This kind of thing cannot be regarded in our thinking about racial and Commonwealth relationships.

Memory of ancient and recent wrongs, the colored peoples of the underdeveloped nations face the facts of still persisting social discrimination.

Many of the white peoples of the Commonwealth are making real progress towards tolerance and acceptance in the social realm.

The remarkable campaign started a couple of years ago by white women in Rhodesia to stop the constant discrimination and rudeness practiced against Africans in the shops and on the streets is a case in point. But the need for such a campaign illustrates the persistence of the evil.

Memory of ancient and recent wrongs, the colored peoples of the underdeveloped nations face the facts of still persisting social discrimination.

Many of the white peoples of the Commonwealth are making real progress towards tolerance and acceptance in the social realm.

The remarkable campaign started a couple of years ago by white women in Rhodesia to stop the constant discrimination and rudeness practiced against Africans in the shops and on the streets is a case in point. But the need for such a campaign illustrates the persistence of the evil.

Programs is slow and even in the most enlightened areas—including Canada—incidents of discrimination based on color, do still occur. In less enlightened areas we cannot force old ladies to walk in the gutter or allow our precocious children to address educated and cultured negro gentlemen as "boy" (to use two of the very mildest of our offensives) and at the same time expect our religious and our social and our political professions of fellowship to be accepted without somewhat skeptical reservations. This kind of thing cannot be regarded in our thinking about racial and Commonwealth relationships.

Historians' Treasure Trove

By MARQUEZ CHILDS

Wrote a personal letter to the Sultan of Morocco thanking him for his help in suppressing piracy in the Mediterranean. He could not have known that he was establishing a precedent to be followed by every successive president.

In personal correspondence with heads of government and heads of state President Kennedy seems to have outdistanced all his successors. With at least a dozen rulers the president has been carrying on a warm and often even intimate exchange of letters.

The letters—to Macmillan, Khrushchev, Nasser, Sukarno, Nehru, Ayub Khan and several of the new African heads of government—are in most instances not concerned with specific problems involving the United States. They contain, according to those who follow and expedite this correspondence, no suggestion of "deals" which zealous critics often suspect in personal diplomacy.

Instead they range over the whole field of statecraft. Often the correspondents write in remarkably frank terms of their domestic concerns. In a recent interview President Nasser of Egypt spoke of his in-imate exchange with President Kennedy which ignored the clichés of normal diplomatic exchange.

While this correspondence will be a treasure trove for historians many years hence, it is today a carefully guarded secret. President Kennedy has convinced his pen pals that they can trust the complete privacy of these exchanges.

Premier Khrushchev is said to have written with remarkable frankness and this frankness has been matched by the president in his letters.

One reason the Kennedy correspondence has grown so rapidly is the continuing procession of foreign visitors. In his last three years in the White House President Eisenhower received 38 heads of state or heads of government.

In some instances they are one and the same. In his first two years in office President Kennedy had 50 government heads as official visitors. And the number scheduled for 1963 is already more than 20.

Wanting to talk frankly with a visitor about mutual problems, the president often finds himself later in a developing correspondence coming out of the discussion. This has been especially true of the African visitors. The close personal relationship he has established with many of the new African leaders, based with all the troubles of new and precarious independence, is considered a major asset of American policy in this area.

The presidential correspondence is carefully co-ordinated with the State Department. The president often consults Secretary of State Dean Rusk about an outgoing letter and, in the instance of Khrushchev, Llewellyn Thompson, special assistant to the secretary on Soviet affairs. Sometimes drafts are submitted for the president's consideration.

But he is insistent on his own style of expression. This goes so far as to include what State Department drafters call boiler plate—routine congratulations or expressions of formal interest in this or that important event. There were at the outset rather sharp rebukes for those who thought boiler plate would not require the presidential okay. The personal stamp is said to be on all the correspondence that goes from the president's desk to the far corners of the earth. The letters are forwarded in various ways. If timing is considered important, they are delivered to the ambassador representing the head of government to whom the letter is being sent. Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin, for example, on receipt of a K-to-K letter has it translated into Russian and encoded in the embassy for immediate dispatch to the Kremlin through the embassy's own channels.

When there is no urgency the president's letter may be sent by cable to the American ambassador in the country for formal transmission to the recipient. Again if there is ample time the original draft with the president's signature may be sent by courier direct to the head of government as a special mark of the president's esteem.

In 1959—the year of Khrushchev's visit and of Eisenhower's 11-nation trip—281 letters went out to heads of government under his personal signature. Last year President Kennedy signed 335 such letters.

Washington in his letter to the Sultan said, "We're not a rich nation... but hope sometime to be useful to our friends." It was a prophetic hope.

He demands no less than all the land between the Fish River and Zululand. To the South African ear, the words Fish River are a startling echo of the 19th century and its endless bitter wars, in which the whites sought to establish the Fish River as a boundary against the blacks. Here it was coming up again on the issue of the first Bantustan.

Nor was that all the startling news. The chief also blandly served notice on the government that he is against its policy of endorsing out the Xhosa from the Cape and sending them back to their Transkei homeland. And while traders in the Transkei were told bluntly that their trade monopoly would soon be ended.

For good measure the chief also lashed out at the United Party opposition and at all other opposition groups, and in general created by his statement enough embarrassment to the government to bring the prime minister to his feet. "Chief Makhama," said Dr. Verwoerd, "was provoked." That may be but it does suggest that there may be trouble ahead for the government.

Is there perhaps something in the name "Kaiser" that gives the chief his aspirations for more living room?

Apart from the chief's statements, the Transkei debate has been notable for the policy statement made by the leader of the United party, Sir de Villiers Graaff.

He is a middle-of-the-road party. It is equally against apartheid and complete integration. "But," said Sir de Villiers, "at present the United party policy is that Africans should be represented by eight white members in the Republic Parliament."

Later, he anticipated, limited representation of Africans by Africans would come about after consultation with the electorate. These, he felt, were sign posts on the way to the United party policy of race federation.

That may be the United party policy, but whether the Africans will, in these rushing times, be willing to accept this gradual change is another story. The semi-independence even of a Bantustan is a much headier brew.

On the other hand, by no means all Nationalists are happy about the Bantustans. There are many who, while firm supporters of Dr. Verwoerd in other respects, are almost as worried as the United party at the idea of a ring of even semi-independent Bantustans around South Africa. Perhaps this is the reason why one Nationalist speaker in the debate pooh-poohed the idea of their ever having full independence.

In his view, the Bantustans would be a kind of confederation of states with—the implication was—the Republic as "Baas" or boss. Is this perhaps the start of a shift in attitude? Dr. Verwoerd is in a dilemma. To the world outside he must present his native Bantustans as semi-independent African states which ultimately will be independent. But for internal consumption within South Africa he must still cling to the idea of some measure of control over the native states.

Chinese Rush to Woo Indonesia

By EDWARD NEWMAN
From Jakarta

The visit to Indonesia of Liu Shao-chi, chairman of the Chinese People's Republic, has several significant aspects.

Liu arrives here Thursday (today) on an eight-day visit. Most obvious among the aspects of the Chinese Red's visit is the hastiness with which it was arranged following the 10-day sojourn of Soviet Defence Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky.

LIU SHAO-CHI

Liu's Current Visit Significant

Moscow and Peking have been wooing Indonesia for a long time and indications now are that the competition may be put into the framework of the Sino-Soviet split.

It appears the Chinese sensed Russia was gaining an advantage through the recent Indonesian arms buildup accomplished through Russian credits and deployment of technicians, of whom there are at least 2,000 in Indonesia today. Liu can be expected to offer assistance to counter the Soviet aid.

Communist Chinese aid to Indonesia has been compartively small, totalling only about $30,000,000 in credits compared with the Soviets' more than $400,000,000. Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary have all given Indonesia more credits than Red China.

The Liu visit also has bearing on the Sino-Indian situation which is an important part of the Sino-Soviet rift. Indonesia has suddenly emerged as the replacement for India as the leader of the non-aligned camp.

Indonesia's brand of non-alignment has Peking's stamp of approval while India's, of course, does not.

Liu's visit could also have an effect in the power struggle now going on within the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI).

The party has maintained strict neutrality in the Sino-Soviet split so far. PKI delegates will be visiting both Peking and Moscow this month.

Last week, however, a PKI officer made a speech in Sumatra saying: "The United States is the main enemy of Indonesia." This is strictly Red Chinese semantics and may fore-shadow ascendance of the militant left within the PKI, which is already a major power factor in the nation along with the army.

The Liu visit will be the first by a Communist Chinese head of state to a non-Communist country.

The Malinovsky and Liu visits promise to help make 1963 as big a visiting year as 1962 was for Indonesia. Last year's guests included Japanese Crown Prince Akihito, Robert Kennedy, top Romanian officials, a Yugoslav naval party and many other defence and government leaders from the United States, Russia and the Philippines.

The only Communist Chinese visitors last year were a group of specialists from Peking who journeyed to Jakarta to treat Sukarno's liver.

Indonesia Heading for Trouble

Too Far Too Fast with Too Little

Extreme nationalism, a trait common among former colonized nations, is leading Indonesia into trouble.

The thrust of this characteristic has caused Indonesia to try to go too far too fast with too little. Nationalism is the common denominator of all the nation's policies and most of its problems. As a result Indonesia has squandered much of her resources and is faced today with a deteriorating economy.

More dangerous, this leaves the nation ripe for exploitation by communism in the traditional pattern.

The combination of economic weakness and extreme nationalism is a tandem which Communists have capitalized on throughout the world. The Chinese Communists owe their successes on the mainland to this combination—promising a better life without foreign domination.

The Communist Party (PKI) in Indonesia is promising the same sort of rainbow. The Communist pattern in exploiting this nationalism here is not particularly ingenious. In the past the Soviet Union has simply backed anything Indonesia wanted from Arma to West Irian to a sports stadium for the Asian Games.

It is apparent that when First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan visited Jakarta at the height of the West Irian crisis he was trying to urge President Sukarno to go ahead and fight.

The visit of Defence Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky and other events make it appear the Soviet Union will be encouraging Indonesia to go all out in opposing the formation of Malaysia, the federation of Malaya, Singapore and Borneo.

Sukarno has an armed force now that is superior to anything in the Far East except for the United States, Britain and Australia.

Internal communism would be greatly served if Russia can goad Indonesia into a confrontation with the "imperialist" powers short of war that would end in a favorable negotiated settlement over Malaysia.

Nationalism is what the Communists are selling. There are no buyers for communism per se.

BACKGROUND

African Students Behind Iron Curtain

Missionaries for Communism

By STEELING SLAPPEY
From Bonn

When the West feels pleased that 500 African students fled from Iron Curtain universities because of beatings and racial bigotry, it should consider how many such students remain there.

The sobering figure is 18,000, and it is safe to assume that most of them are hard at work becoming missionaries for Communism.

In two to five years, when the education and the indoctrination of these 18,000 for-eight students is completed, there will be a red flood pouring from the Soviet Union, Red China, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania.

Five Hundred Flee But 18,000 Remain

Most will go to their native countries, where the Communists expect them to help set up the revolutionary apparatus which the Soviet Union has in mind for practically every country in Africa and Asia.

To assume that the student program has any other objective is to be naive. An outline of what the international Communist movement operates has been clearly indicated in literally thousands of western intelligence reports.

This outline has been confirmed and brought up to date this past winter. The 500 fleeing African students have told interrogators from western organizations and representatives of many non-political groups, such as the West German Association of Student Unions, just what they learned about the vast foreign student program while they were behind the Iron Curtain.

From the students and numerous other sources, it has been established that the approximately 18,000 students from about 21 countries still studying in Communist universities are broken down this way: In the Soviet Union, 8,000; Communist China, 3,000; Czechoslovakia, 2,200; East Germany, 2,000; Poland, 1,300; Hungary, 1,000, and Romania, 500.

There were 500 or more in Bulgaria but most of them left over the past two years because of mistreatment, racial trouble, beatings, jailings and other animosities.

Scores of African and a few Asian students also left universities in the other Communist countries for the same reasons.

Most of the students who remain are by now committed to communism to such a degree that they are willing to suffer indignities. Other students realize that they will be marked people back home and that for selfish reasons alone they must stay with the communist movement. They are, in every sense of the word, trapped.

Some of these students were Communists or Communist sympathizers before they went east. Several of the fleeing 500 admitted they, too, once thought communism was the perfect answer to help in the development of their backward nations.

These young Communists and Communist sympathizers were easy to recruit. They were simply offered a chance by the local embassy or Communist party to go to Moscow or Sofia or elsewhere and become a complete Communist and to get an education to boot. Occasionally, a sense of adventure persuaded some young people.

But to get the great bulk of foreign students—those who were not Communists—the de-few of their schools prepare a student well enough for direct college entrance.

Negroes are disliked, often violently. Students are made to know this almost immediately. The trouble usually starts when a Negro seeks the association of a white girl.

Little is known about Africa or about Negroes in Moscow, Sofia, Bucharest or Warsaw.

Communist indoctrination begins slowly and it is increased steadily. After about a year, the African student finds that he must take courses slanted straight at Communist doctrines. History courses are only vaguely related to events.

The student is told to make shortwave broadcasts to the people back home and tell them how fine everything is.

For this they get more education than they would get at home. They also get free board, tuition, books and allowances. These allowances usually are twice as much as other students receive.

The students are watched constantly, to the extent of having "observers" living in the room with each three Africans. Their mail is opened, and a sure way to get into trouble is for an African to be seen talking to a diplomat from a western embassy.

Many students who fled said they could tolerate all this but they could not take the physical violence.

They were beaten, spat upon, cursed, called monkeys and jungle people, and shoved about in school hallways. When they went to the police or government officials, they were told they were lying, or were simply thrown into jail.

When some of them tried to form a students union in Sofia, there were mass jailings.

Few among fleeing students have any idea now that communism is a good political or human doctrine. They say, instead, that they hate communism so much now they will fight against it.

There have been hundreds of broadcasts made to home countries by these students telling the people what happened behind the Iron Curtain and why it happened.

Because of this the West scored a sound propaganda victory over the Soviet bloc and much has been made of this victory in the West. It was brilliantly exploited.

But that does not change the fact that for every African who fled at least nine others remain.

Occasionally, some students who may have had records are not given passports by their home governments. Or they are given passports valid only in certain western nations. In many cases these people go to Accra, in Ghana, and get an illegal passport. They then proceed to Khartoum or Cairo. This was true of many students from Kenya and other sections of East Africa.

There have been numerous cases of students who thought they were going to universities in the United States, Britain or Germany. Several Somalia thought they were going to Rome.

Once installed in a Communist city they quickly learn three things: ● That they are not in a university at all. They are in a preparatory school. Few Africans and Negroes speak the necessary slavic languages and few of their schools prepare a student well enough for direct college entrance.

Prevents Corrosion

Star 'Dust' Created

A chemical element that occurs naturally only in stars is being produced on earth as a by-product of nuclear reactors.

The element is technetium, and it can be used to help keep steel from rusting. Technetium is able to slow or even stop corrosion and steel exposed to water containing minute amounts of the star element does not rust even when kept at high temperatures for a long time. Without the technetium the steel would rust at once. Technetium does not exist in the earth's crust but has been identified in the light spectrum of several stars. (Los Angeles Times)

LETTER to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subject of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I notice that in the recent elections there were 277 polling places in Victoria, and as there would be a proportionate number in other places this bears out a previous suggestion of mine that elections should be held on Saturdays and the schoolhouses of the nation be utilized for polling booths.

Such a superfluity of polling places as we have now seems to me to be as useless as 20 wheels under a motor car where four should suffice. For years in this city we have got along with one polling station in civic elections for all and I remember the time in Vancouver when one polling place was used both in federal and provincial elections.

I do not say that we should cut down to that number now, but here in Victoria there are 16 schoolhouses distributed throughout the city, and classrooms with voters alphabetically arranged should easily accommodate all.

If my proposal were adopted over the broad stretch of Canada the saving in cost would be enormous.

Cuba Exiles Break with U.S.

MIAMI (UPI)—Angry Cuban exile leaders broke with the Kennedy administration Wednesday over what they termed its decision to co-exist with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba.

A spokesman for the Cuban Revolutionary Council, recognized by Washington as a voice for the estimated 250,000 Cuban refugees in this country, bitterly attacked Washington "leaks" as to purported motives for the break.

An administration source told capital newsmen that council president Jose Miro Cardona has asked for $50,000,000 to train a new anti-Castro army, or, as an alternative, a key role in future U.S. anti-Castro planning. The allegation was denied.

The council spokesman said bluntly Washington sought to discredit Miro because of the administration's inability to get him to change his mind about the break.

The powerful exile group decided to break with the administration because of its recent ham on the use of armed force against the Castro regime and regulations restricting the travel rights in this country of anti-Castro leaders.

The revolutionary council in a night-long meeting here decided unanimously to reject Miro's offer to resign the council presidency.

It supported his condemnation of the Kennedy administration and vowed to continue the fight against Castro and communism in Cuba and the hemisphere regardless of the official U.S. policy.

2,470 Orbits So Far

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence research board reported Wednesday that its Alouette satellite travelled 71,500,000 miles in 2,470 orbits around the earth in its first six months of operation.

The satellite, launched Sept. 28, 1962, from a California base, had transmitted 212,000 messages in 1,080 hours of telemetry operation up to March 29. It had responded to 6,900 separate commands from ground stations and there had been no need to use any of the spare equipment aboard the satellite, such as extra batteries.

Deadly Cancer in Children Yields to Triple Treatment

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—One deadly cancer in children is yielding now to a triple treatment, a cancer doctor reports.

An antibiotic, surgery and radiation are destroying all visible signs of Wilms' tumor of the kidney in 81 per cent of child victims, said Dr. Sidney Farber of Boston.

The apparent cure rate of the kidney cancer had recently risen to 40 per cent through surgery and radiation. But 60 per cent of children still died.

mainly because the cancer had spread to their lungs. Now the antibiotic, actinomycin D, has joined the battle. For the first time, all signs of a solid tumor in children are being eliminated fairly regularly.

Eighty-one per cent of youngsters receiving the combined treatment between 1957 and 1960 are alive and well.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unwanted fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Esquimaltirate Over 'Silence'

Esquimalt is still completely in the dark as to what will be required of it under new provincial regulations governing family and juvenile courts, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said yesterday.

The reeve was among representatives of Greater Victoria municipalities who met deputy attorney-general Gilbert Kennedy this week to seek further information on the responsibilities of local authorities under the new act.

"I came out not knowing any more about the situation than I did when I went in to the meeting," Reeve Wurtele said. "I asked a question but didn't get a satisfactory answer. I might as well have stayed home."

Coal Island 'Kingdom' Stands Pat

Coal Island, the private kingdom of the late Frederick E. Lewis, will continue as it is for the time being, a spokesman for Coal Island Ltd., the holding company, said last night.

"Mrs. Lewis is carrying on and is keeping the island," he said. "The company is keeping the boats for the time, but we might sell one or two of the larger ones when the estate is settled."

DIED RECENTLY

Capt. Lewis, a multi-millionaire, died March 6 at Rest Haven Hospital. He bought Coal Island, 4-mile offshore from Swartz Bay, in 1945. A number of ships made up Capt. Lewis' fleet, including a converted 93-foot ammunition lighter, fitted for heavy freighting and fire-fighting, and a refitted naval torpedo boat—a Fairmile—which Capt. Lewis used as a personal yacht.

Last Supper Rite Tonight

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi de Roo will wash the feet of 12 male members—laymen—of the St. Andrew's Cathedral congregation at a mandatum and mass at 7:30 p.m. today at the cathedral. The mandatum ceremony is in memory of what happened on the first Thursday of the Last Supper when the Lord washed the feet of His apostles.

Warren Opposes Mt. Douglas Radio Facilities

City parks administrator W. H. Warren yesterday strongly opposed an application by a local radio station for permission to place transmission facilities and tower on Mt. Douglas.

Mr. Warren said his basic disagreement with the application was that park property should be kept for recreational purposes.

FEARS MORE BIDS

He warned that the B.C. Telephone Company already has facilities on Mt. Douglas and added that if another company were allowed to locate more applications would follow.

"I'm sure there are other suitable sites," the administrator said. "It is just a matter of dollars and cents that these people aren't prepared to lay out."

OTHER MILLS

Mr. Warren said more suitable than Mt. Douglas for the purpose required by CKDA was the Smith's Hill reservoir property. He added that Bear Hill on the Saanich Peninsula was higher than Mt. Douglas. Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee which heard the CKDA application yesterday decided to table the matter for further study. Spokesman Keith MacKenzie said the installation proposed for Mt. Douglas would require about 80 feet by 30 feet of property and would be inconspicuous.

Former General Rifter's Target?

DALLAS (AP)—Former Major-General Edwin Walker said Wednesday night he was the victim of an attempted rifle assassination while he sat at a desk before a window at his home.

Chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said he hoped city council would turn down a recommendation that the proposed $32,000 budget for Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks operation this year be trimmed by $6,000.

The joint committee was informed yesterday that Saanich had approved its full $16,000 share on condition that the city did the same.

MILK-BONE satisfies the bone hunger of your dog

A dog needs to chew, and knows it. In the absence of a bone, even the best-trained dog will find something else to chew—when something he shouldn't. But there are few bones in today's kitchens. Many that are available are not safe or good for your dog. That's why the modern dog goes bone-hungry.

The answer is MILK-BONE—the biscuit with the real bone shape that makes wonderful chewing, without a real bone's tendency to splinter or upset the digestion. MILK-BONE also gives your dog all the important nourishment found in milk, meat, bone-meal and vegetables. Get MILK-BONE in the biscuit size that suits the size of your dog—regular or large.

Government Says:

Curbs on Bingo Not Inconsistent

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said last night there was no inconsistency in recent action that stopped three charitable organizations from using the name Victoria hall for bingo games.

"City police commission was advised of what appeared to be one or two violations of the law," he said. The statement confirmed remarks by city police commissioner Gordon Carter recently.

Two weeks ago Esquimalt Legion, Ex-Servicemen's Branch and Victoria Old Age Pensioners No. 1 were forced to stop holding bingo games in Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion hall, after city police had warned Britannia Branch officials they were breaking the law.

Government Fires Council

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Corner Brook city council was dismissed Wednesday by the Newfoundland government and is to be replaced by a three-man commission which will attempt to put the city's affairs back in order.

Announcement of the action was made in the Newfoundland legislature by Minister of Municipal Affairs Minister Weston J. Abbott. His statement also announced the appointment of Major Allison Borden as chairman of the commission.

The council has been divided for more than a year, primarily over council's power to interfere in civic hiring and firing. The dispute resulted in the resignations of the city solicitor and city manager.

The council also had trouble balancing its budget this spring and has defied the municipal affairs department in connection with the use of land.

BOTH UNDER RULE

Both operators of halls used for bingo and organizations holding bingo games come under the provisions of the law, the spokesman explained.

Both are limited to "occasional" bingo games if they want to avoid prosecution.

Bingo game operators had complained the threat of police action was inconsistent with a public statement last fall by attorney-general Robert Rooper.

Steel Price Hike Poser for U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The price line in the United States steel industry was broken Wednesday by one of the smaller producers. The big question now: What will the rest of the industry and President Kennedy do about it?

A selective $5-a-ton price increase by Wheeling Steel Corporation posed momentous questions.

President Kennedy postponed his departure from Washington for an Easter vacation in Florida.

Asked the reason, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger replied:

"The president has a number of matters here at the White House he feels he should attend to."

YEAR AFTER BATTLE

Wheeling's action came exactly a year after U.S. Steel, the No. 1 producer, raised prices and stirred up a major battle between the White House and the industry.

Kennedy—infuriated then at a price increase after a new labor contract had been negotiated without a wage raise—mounted a massive offensive against the steelmakers. Under this pressure and the failure of some companies to go along, the increase was rescinded three days later.

No Effect In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—A general price increase in U.S. steel would not immediately affect Canadian steel prices, industry spokesmen said Wednesday.

They commented on selective price increases announced by Wheeling Steel Corporation.

"Our prices are based on Canadian conditions and costs, not the U.S. price structure," L. T. Craig, vice-president of the Steel Company of Canada Limited, said.

'End to Millionaire'

Russian Gold Hoarder To Face Firing Squad

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet "millionaire" who hoarded gold illegally has been sentenced to be shot, a press report said today.

The man, a clothes designer from Moldavia identified only as Katz, amassed so much wealth as head of a ring of cloth black marketers that he was said to have "lost count of it."

When Katz was caught, authorities confiscated gold coins, watches and other jewelry worth $80,000 and an additional $35,200 in cash. His accomplices received undisclosed prison sentences.

The story was reported in the newspaper Soviet Milledia under the headline End to a Millionaire. It labelled Katz a "slave of the yellow devil."

Katz, the newspaper said, kept a third of his gold fortune hidden in a cache in a brick wall. When people became suspicious about his wealth, Katz claimed he had found a buried treasure.

it costs 4/10 of a penny more

If you are going to paint the outside of your house or garage or fences or porch or trim, this will interest you:

It costs $.015 per square foot to paint with Monamel, the finest paint you can buy.

It costs $.011 per square foot to paint with cheap promotion paint.

So, with a gallon of that kind of paint, you save a couple of dollars. But consider what you lose.

In all probability, a gallon of cheap paint will not cover 600 square feet. Every gallon of Monamel will easily cover that large a painting area, and more.

Monamel is made with phthalic anhydride and pentaerythritol and hydrocarbon solvents and titanium dioxide pigments and many other top quality ingredients not usually found in cheap paint. It's a matter of simple economics: cheap paint cannot have quality ingredients.

Also, your Monamel paint job will last longer, look better, and resist the weather long after cheap paint has lost its color and flaked away.

People know it makes good sense and is good economy to paint with Monamel. For Monamel is the finest paint you can buy - the top quality paint made by General Paint Corporation of Canada, Limited. Ask for Monamel by name and don't settle for anything less.

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas said Wednesday night that if he was in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's present position "I would submit my resignation."

Mr. Douglas, arriving by air from Vancouver, stressed to reporters that he was not trying to offer advice to Mr. Diefenbaker but it was his personal opinion that the prime minister's resignation was "the logical thing to do" in the face of Monday's election results.

Mr. Douglas said he thought it unlikely that the two smaller parties would support the Progressive Conservative government in the new Parliament only two months after both the NDP and Social Credit had rejected the administration in a Commons confidence vote.

Service Vote Forecast:

Closer—Still Short

OTTAWA (UPI)—Lester Pearson's Liberal party is expected to move closer to a majority government with the results of a traditionally pro-Liberal armed service vote but will probably still fall short of the 133-seat minimum needed for control of the House of Commons.

The 141,000 votes, more crucial than ever before in Canada's history, will be released over the weekend, and Liberal officials predict they will gain at least two seats in Ontario, for a total of 130.

The most likely change is seen in Hastings South, where the margin between Conservative Lee Grills and Liberal Robert Temple is only 92 votes. Last June the service vote in this riding showed a majority of 535 for the Liberals.

The other is Lambton-Kent, where John Burgess trailed Conservative M. T. MacCormack by 69 votes. Last year the servicemen gave the Liberals 129 of their 181 votes and the Tories got only 50.

Another upset could occur in Mines Minister Paul Martin's Quebec riding of Pontiac-Temiscamingue, where he clung to office with a majority of 28 votes over Liberal Paul Goulet, according to latest figures. A recount has already been asked for.

In Rimouski, Que., the count was 132 Liberal of a total of 217 service votes in June. On Monday, Social Credit's Garbott Ouellette led Liberal Garand Legare by 143 votes.

The most remote hope of all is the chance of stealing victory from Finance Minister George Nowlan in Digby-Annapolis-Kings, N.S. He won by fewer than 1,000 votes, and the 1,800 service votes would have to swing 133 in favor of the Liberals if they are to take the seat.

Brief Encounter Held By Thompson, Caouette

Pearson Invited To Israel

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel's Liberal party has invited Lester Pearson, leader of the Canadian Liberal party which won the most seats in Canada's general election Monday, to visit Israel.

The invitation was sent to Pearson in a message of congratulation for the party's success in the Canadian election.

home at Rouyn, Que. A private meeting was to be held later but no one was revealing the place or time.

Mr. Thompson also was making no commitments about Social Credit voting support when Parliament meets. On arrival early Wednesday from Red Deer, Alta., he indicated Prime Minister Diefenbaker should resign the reins of government.

"He has lost the confidence of his party and of the Canadian people," he said. "Less than one-third of the voters supported the Conservative party."

If Liberal Leader Pearson formed a government, Mr. Thompson said, it would be responsible "to throw him out." "Very definitely we can't have another election right away and whoever becomes

Green Firm:

Warheads May Bar Arms Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday night he still believes Canadian acceptance of nuclear warheads would make disarmament negotiations more difficult.

Mr. Green arrived by department of transport jet from Vancouver, where he was defeated Monday in his personal bid for re-election in Vancouver Quadra riding.

"If Canada takes nuclear weapons, it would affect Canada's standing in all the new countries," he said.

"It will make our work in the disarmament talks very difficult, in my judgment."

Mr. Green said he was speaking primarily about acquiring nuclear warheads for Canadian home defence, but that his view applied as well to equipping Canadian NATO forces in Europe.

Manning Cites Stability

EDMONTON (CP)—A desire by the Canadian people for a stable government was the major factor in determining the result of Monday's federal election, Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said Wednesday.

"The Canadian people... have over the years accepted the promise that stability in government is identified with one of the two traditional parties," he told a press conference. "This was the major reason the new parties failed to gain a greater measure of support."

It is obvious, however, that "dissatisfaction" with the two traditional parties—the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives—is increasing, he said. More than 2,000,000 Canadians voted for Social Credit and New Democratic Party candidates, further evidence that the disintegration of old political allegiances is continuing and that there is a need for political realignment in Canada, the premier said.

Mr. Manning said the voters wanted stable government, but couldn't make up their minds which was the lesser of the two evils, the Liberals or the Conservatives.

ON THE FAIRWAY

MAX FAULKNER

(Well-known British professional Max Faulkner begins a weekly series in The Daily Colonist today. The winner of the 1961 British Open is almost as well-known for his knowledge of the game as for his golfing prowess.)

LONDON—There was a day last January when I resigned myself to the fact that Faulkner wouldn't be around to write his usual curtain-raising column to a great new golf season.

Five feet of snow cut us off from humanity, the heating was off, a burst pipe had turned our bathroom into a swimming pool, my dog had a cold, the car wouldn't start, I hadn't hit a golf ball for seven weeks and there was clearly no hope for another month.

I took a last fond look at my wife and my trophies and decided that if Captain Oates could do it so could our Maxie. Like every other golfers golfer in bed-up, frozen-up Britain, I could cheerfully have ended it all.

Mercifully a snowdrift prevented me from budging the front door of our igloo. Historic heroism was impossible. I was doomed to live.

Only my British readers can

I Cheated a Bit

I must confess that I have cheated. To ease up for the season I fled to Monte Carlo for five weeks at the end of the winter to play with some shipwrecked friends.

Not one of Britain's 1,555 golf courses escaped the terrible winter. Some were entirely shut down for nine weeks. Some of the smaller ones will have to put up membership fees to cover their losses. Even the big ones were beginning to wonder.

One course dropped $1,500 in bar turnover, green fees and catering takings. Another lost $1,000. In all the losses can't be far short of $1,000,000.

What about the profession

Golf Courses Needed Rest

Firstly, he will find a month or so from now, that his course is in better condition than he has seen it for years. Golf courses, like football pitches, need a rest. And in most cases, dry winds and a heavy roller are all that are now needed to restore them to glowing health.

Secondly, if he has any sense, the average golfer will use the winter-break to advantage. It's the perfect chance to eradicate all the old habit-forming faults and start again.

The trouble with nine out of ten club members in Britain is that they are too impatient to learn the rudiments of the game. They all want to get out on the course and score. Already this spring I've seen dozens of players bring their three-month hibernation by driving off at the first tee without so much as a practice shot. Don't neglect practice or you'll regret it.

In other countries, particularly in America, you find members being much more practical and methodical about it. They will spend an hour, a day, even a week, at the practice grounds before playing a round.

This kind of calculated approach has never been more important to the British handicapper than it is now. A couple of lessons now before bad habits or a faulty swing have become part of the game again, might be worth a dozen lessons later.

The tournament pros, of course, will never have less time to prepare for a big money season. A few, like me, have sneaked off to the sun to get our swings going again. But I anticipate a few below-standard weeks early in the season.

Right now, though, win or lose it's great to be back. And having got this ruddy British winter off my chest I promise not to mention it again—even as an excuse.

Koufax Answers Big Question

The Finger's Just Fine, Thanks

"How's the finger?" is a playoff with San Francisco Giants.

Dodger speed gave Koufax the run he needed. Willie Davis got one run by getting hit with a pitched ball, stealing second and third and then scoring on a bad throw to third. Davis then singled home the second run after a passed ball had put rookie Dick Tracy in scoring position.

The Giants stayed right with the Dodgers with a spectacular 14-7 victory over Houston Astros. Koufax pitched five innings, allowing but five hits and striking out 10 in a 2-1 win over the Chicago Cubs.

It was perhaps the most significant development of the three-day major league baseball season. Koufax seemed on his way to at least a 25-win season last year when his odd finger ailment cropped up to leave him without a victory after July 12, and the Dodgers without the National League pennant, which they lost in a

For Bunks

Mets Equal Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Mets already have equalled their 1962 record for a one department—bunks.

While losing 129 games in their maiden season, Met pitchers were guilty of only five bunks. They have matched that with five in the first two games this season. Roger Craig had two called on him in Tuesday's opener and Don Rosa had one in Wednesday's game. Al Jackson and Tracy Stallard each contributed one.

Even the major league record is within reach at this pace. The Phillies set that with 14 in 1959 and New York Yankees tied it the same year.

Altered Lineup Faces United

Victoria District All-Stars will present a somewhat altered lineup against Victoria United in an exhibition soccer game at Royal Athletic Park Friday afternoon at 2:45.

Twelve minor soccer games will precede the match, proceeds of which will be diverted to the young players' leagues.

First minor game begins at 9 a.m.

All-Stars have lost three players through injury and their goalie through illness since last week when they defeated the Mainland Reps, 5-3, in the first game of two-game series.

Duncan Campbell, Tony Quinn and Bill Abbott are all sidelined with various ailments. Goalsie Larry DeConde recently underwent an appendectomy.

TWO GOALIES

Dave Unwin and Lou Pollard are the two goalies selected for Friday. Gino Brossen and Jim Hawthorne are full-backs. Roy St. Denis, Pat Mulcahy and John Craig are halfbacks. Tony Bourdain, Alan Metcalfe, Ced Robb, Ian Holroyd and Jim Clarke are forwards. Spares are John Roston, Barry Cosier, Tom Locke and Tom Lowrie.

Sunday, at Central Park at 2 p.m., Heameys of Division I and Eddys of Division II play the deciding game in their best-of-three promotion-relegation series.

Price Cup action on the same hour, at Heywood, sees George playing Scottish.

Leafs Minus Mahovlich Howe Fighting Off Flu

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-2 winners in the first game, will play without left-winger Frank Mahovlich tonight when they meet Detroit Red Wings in the second game of the Stanley Cup final but the Wings will have Gordie Howe in action.

Mahovlich suffered a bruised knee Tuesday when he collided with Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby in the first period.

Tonight's game will be televised from the start over Channels 2 and 6 starting at 8 Victoria time.

Mahovlich is expected to be ready for action in the third game, at Detroit Sunday.

Howe has the flu but the big rightwinger is practically certain to be in his usual spot for the second game. And if he is, he will again have to contend with Eddie Shack, the bumptious bumptin' of the Maple Leafs who drew rare praise from coach Punch Imlach for his fine play in the first game.

"It didn't matter to me whether Shack or Mahovlich ended up watching Howe but Shack did a good job so I guess I'll keep it that way," Imlach said.

Imlach said he might use either rookie Kent Douglas or Carl Brewer, both defencemen, in Mahovlich's leftwinger spot on the line with Red Kelly and Ron Stewart.

"You never know what I'm going to do," he said to questioners. "I don't either."

There was plenty of confidence in both camps, and the Wings acted and talked anything but like a team which had lost the opening game.

"We just won four straight from Chicago and we were bound to lose," commented Detroit coach Sid Abel. "Besides, Toronto didn't show us anything we didn't see all season, and we outplayed them all season long. We were just plain lousy Tuesday."

"The Leafs will have to play much better than they did Tuesday, because we will," said Howe, who admitted that he hadn't had a particularly good game.

Assistant coach King Clancy spoke for the Leafs.

"They," he said of the Wings, "won't get any better but we will."

In Rugby Victory

Japanese Exhibit Speed and Agility

By JIM TANG

Because it is so important in this game as it is to others, the Japanese may never become a world rugby power but to the 1,000 or so Victorians who turned out at Macdonald Park last night to watch the all-Japan team play Victoria Reps, the Japanese showed in their 20-10 victory that they have learned the game exceedingly well.

Averaging about 150 pounds, the Japanese team last night got the kind of conditions it needs to compensate for lack of height by full use of speed and agility and showed that it was a well-schooled unit.

Japanese forwards, who started many good movements, worked well with the backs, their ball-handling was excellent and they followed up extremely well. A harsh critic may have faulted them for a weakness in positional play and in tackling, where there was a tendency to tackle too high for players of their size, but they compensated by alertness and agility and their harassing tactics forced the Reps into bad handling and other blunders.

GOOD SPEED

At least two of the tourists would look good on any rugby club. Left-winger Kunio Miyai, once a sprinter for his country in the Asian games, still has his speed and also the ball-handling ability of most of his teammates. And dominating the lineouts was lock-forward Masataka Kusatsu, at six feet, one inch and 190 pounds the biggest man on the team.

Fullback Naoharu Yasuda, although not too often put to the test, played his position well and looked solid.

MORE ALERT

Whether or not it was the calibre and/or type of their opposition, the Reps didn't look good by comparison. Their ball handling was bad, they failed to follow up and could seldom get anything started against the more-alert Japanese club.

Reps were better in the second half, and their two tries, both converted by Bob Weisberg, came from two of the prettiest plays of the game.

PERFECT PLAYS

Don Burgess got the first, going over between the uprights after taking a perfect cross-kick from George Wilson, and Dave Clarke got the other near the left upright after a fine run in which he dummied his man perfectly.

Both goals came in the second half, making the score 5-12 and then 10-7, close enough for hope after the winners were perhaps a bit unfortunate in only taking a 9-0 lead into the second half.

The Japanese team was almost completely dominant in the first half and got three penalty kicks within 10 minutes for offside calls. Captain Tatsuya Aoi made the first two, both angled, but missed the third from about 40 yards and almost directly in front.

FIRST THRILL

First try came at about 30 minutes when Miyai got the ball about 35 yards out and gave the fans their first thrill with an angled sprint which put him over just inside the left sideline.

SECOND WIN

It was the second win in three games for the Japanese. They opened with a 23-5 victory over UBC, then lost, 20-5, to Vancouver Reps. They complete their tour with a game against B.C. on Saturday and a game against the 23-and-under B.C. side on Monday.

with Alec Merriman

Conditions are now just about right for all kinds of fishing, but the weatherman has hinted at a little rain for this Easter weekend. He could be wrong, we hope.

Best bets seem to be Saanich Inlet where blueback fishing turned hot at the weekend and spring salmon fishing continues fair; Nanaimo waters off the Five Fingers which are now hot for bluebacks, and Northwest Bay and the Grey Fingers off Lastville which are turning good for blues; Buttle-Upper Campbell Lake and the smaller lakes in that area which are turning good for trout.

River conditions are just about right all over the Island and almost all the rivers are giving up trout and steelhead. A number of the rivers had from runs of steelhead enter them at the weekend.

The young fry from last year's salmon spawning have emerged and are darting about river bottoms with hungry trout ready to grab them at every turn.

Jim Boulding at Gretham Lodge on Buttle-Upper Campbell Lake says fishing has been good, especially in the narrow between the two lakes and along the shore in almost every bay. Worms and eggs have been best lures. The Elk River is still a little cold for the best trout fishing, Boulding reports.

There will be no access over the Gold River road this weekend, although Elk River Timber Co. officials are moving to open the road on a restricted basis. Provincial government has proclaimed the bill it passed last month, which amends three Acts to pave the way for increased public access over logging roads, but a few technicalities remain to be ironed out.

Navy men Jim Brennan, Lloyd Ford and Fred Brockton and army partner Jerry Spurrier brought back proof this week that the trout are biting in the small lakes around Buttle and the Campbell Lakes. "They are not producing the way they should have been, but we got limit catches each day but one," said Brennan. They concentrated on Beaver and Fry Lake and caught cutthroat, rainbows and Dolly Vardens. Gang troll and worm, small white Flatfish and Gibbo Assassins proved best lures.

For those who plan to camp out this weekend Brennan advises that it is "cold."

Murray Cree reports the Englishman has been producing well for both steelhead and trout. All the mid-island rivers are in excellent condition and should produce steelhead and trout, he says.

Red Wilson was among those who made a fresh run of steelhead in the Nanaimo River pay off at the weekend.

Bucky Kennett says there are still some fresh run steelhead in the Cowichan River and at the weekend the lower reaches by the Silver Bridge and down as far as Pimbury Bridge paid off for both trout and steelhead.

Upper reaches of the Cowichan are good for trout and last weekend the trout were just biting as they chased small brown fish. Cowichan Lake has been giving up some trout. Quamichan, Soanema and Dougan Lakes are all giving up trout.

San Juan and Harris Creek are holding good numbers of steelhead. Fairy Lake has been producing some good trout fishing and it is time to try the slough alongside the road. The trout are showing in Lizard Lake, but as usual are hard to get.

Salmon, Campbell and Quinlan Rivers are reported good and in the Courtenay area Teotum, Puntledge and Comox Lake are reported good. Bill Mowbray landed a 20.4-pound steelhead Friday in the Salmon River Gentry Pool, but found fishing slower than he had hoped.

Weston Lake on Salt Spring Island has been giving some good trout fishing.

Finlayson Arm has been hot for blues. Paul Medrich took his 13-year-old nephew, Joe Medrich, out to get his first salmon Sunday and brought him back early in the morning with a limit of 16 blues, all pretty big ones approaching the three-pound size. Medrich also landed on Saturday. Red and white bucktail, worked fast, was the answer. Chris and Ricky Hesketh also landed in the same Goldstream to Narrows waters on Sunday. Monday Tony Baratta got a 16-pound spring in Finlayson waters and Tuesday he and his partners landed 20 blues.

Biggest fish of the Brentwood end so far this week is Art Miesner's 18.3-pounder from Tod Inlet Sunday morning on Strip-Tanner and Feather. Otherwise Tod Inlet has been slow.

Big Easter Sunday event for snapper-gunners will be the Easter Chicken Shoot at the Victoria Fish and Game Club at the Goldstream grounds, starting at 10:30 a.m. The shoot will be open to all comers with classes all the way from those who have never shot before to the experts.

Indian Soccer Tournney

Songhees Recreation Commission is sponsoring a six-team all-native intermediate soccer tournament at Hampton Park this weekend.

Two teams from Duncan, two from Saanich and one each from Kuper Island and Songhees reserves, make up the field for the tournament.

Three games will be played Friday, two Saturday and finals in the championship and consolation rounds will be held Sunday. Each day's program begins at 1 p.m.

Rugby Crown Goes on Line

Nanaimo, recent winner of the Island high school rugby championship, has agreed to put its title on the line today with a game against Charlton.

Yankees Almost Landed Duke Snider

DUKE SNIDER ... not bitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Duke Snider has known since last winter he would be wearing a New York uniform this season but he was hoping it would carry the letters YANKEES on the shirt front rather than METS.

"It was all set for me to come to the Yankees," the former pride of Flatbush said Wednesday, "but George Weiss blocked the deal."

There was no bitterness in Snider's voice as he spoke of the transaction which sent him from the Los Angeles Dodgers to the Mets for $40,000, 75 per cent down and the rest if the 35-year-old outfielder doesn't break down before the season's end.

"I feel bad, of course," Snider said, "but not about coming to the Mets, although I would have preferred the Yankees. Who wouldn't? But I had to leave the Dodgers. It was home there."

The Duke's public in New York apparently doesn't agree with its idol. At Tuesday's opener, a group in section 17 at the Polo Grounds unfurled a large banner with the words: "Welcome back home, Duke!" The Yankees, it has been learned, actually offered the Dodgers $80,000 for Duke's services and Buzzie Bavasi, the Dodgers' general manager, was amenable to the deal. He wished to make Snider happy and that extra 10 grand was not to be sneezed at, either. Unfortunately, the Dodgers had to get waivers from all clubs before Snider would be free to go to the Yankees.

Weiss, who had left the Yankees with some bitterness, before accepting the president's post with the Mets, claimed Snider, thus ending any chance of the veteran beginning a 'Yankee'.

Don't let the quiet hum fool you...

Johnson's V-75 gives you more economical power-per-pound than any outboard, any size!

For its size the Johnson Sea-Horse V-75 gives you more power for your money than any outboard going. A V-75 can have 4 water skiers hanging on for dear life in 3 seconds. It can push many boats to over 40 miles per hour. And the V-75 does it all at an easy-going 4500 rpm (a remarkably low figure as big outboards go). The V-75 has enough azzle to satisfy anyone—plus a degree of quietness and dependability no other outboard any size can match. You can bet a hundred, once you own a V-75 you'll never trade.

The V-75 is at its best when teamed with Electra-matic Drive, Johnson's new electric clutch. Through a convenient single lever, Electramatic Drive controls both throttle and transmission. The drive is smooth, silent, positive and instantaneous. No clank, no grind, no bumps. Another exclusive V-75 feature is Johnson's new alternator generator. It produces a full 20 amps, twice the output of any competitive outboard alternator. Charges the battery even at idling speed assuring you faster starts, safer boating.

See the V-75 Electramatic at your Johnson Dealers now before another great boating season goes by.

Lassie Stands Upright

Lard-lubricated legs let a little lassie lace Tuesday night when she became lodged in an antique piano.

Carol Turner, 5, of 6804 Chesman, was playing about the family piano with a small friend when she wedged herself between the legs and back of the piano.

Her two sisters, a brother, her mother and a friend all took turns at trying to extricate the girl. Finally somebody phoned Spanish Fork, who lubricated the little girl's legs with lard and eased her out.

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII Wednesday made an Easter appeal to "all men of goodwill" to save mankind from nuclear destruction by revitalizing the United Nations and disarming the world's war machines.

In an encyclical entitled Paxem in Terris (Peace on Earth), the 81-year-old pontiff urged Roman Catholic and non-Catholic alike to avoid racial discrimination, grant equal rights to women, and seek the kind of government that guarantees individual freedom.

OVERSHADOWS ALL.
But the threat of nuclear war overshadowed all other parts of the 22,000-word encyclical, the eighth of the Pope's four and one-half-year reign.

"People live in constant fear lest the storm that every moment threatens should break upon them with dreadful violence," he said. "It cannot be denied that the civilization may be set off by some uncontrollable and unexpected chance."

Pope John called for negotiations to avoid this war but admitted that regular diplomacy and summit talks no longer are adequate for the task.

"The public authorities of the individual political communities—placed as they are on a footing of equality one with the other—no matter how much they multiply their meetings or sharpen their wits in efforts to draw up juridical instruments, they are no longer capable of facing the task of finding an adequate solution to the problems mentioned above," he said.

These problems, he said, must go to a "public authority"—apparently a revitalized United Nations with broader global powers.

Auction Expects $20,000

Auction of sale equipment from McEwen's Restaurant, 643 Fort Street, will realize some $20,000, auctioneer Wilfred Lund said last night.

"Not all the things were sold today," Mr. Lund said, "but some people are interested in buying them and will make outright offers for the equipment tomorrow."

QUITE SUCCESSFUL

"The sale was quite successful for this type of sale—there is a very limited market for this type of equipment."

Auction was held to dispose of equipment as the building housing the restaurant will soon be torn down to make way for a seven-story office block to be built by Dawson Construction Limited of Vancouver.

Students' Band Ranges From Sousa to Schubert

By BERT BUNNY

With a program ranging from Sousa to Schubert, the Victoria High School band staged a lively and interesting program at the school auditorium last night.

The large audience enjoyed more serious items such as Holst's First Suite in E Flat for Military Band and the 1st Movement of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony but they were also delighted with such enlivening affairs as Akara El Alamo, Gallo by Logo and Sousa's famous The Stars and Stripes for Ever.

Pleasant interludes were furnished by a clarinet quartet and a string ensemble, the former made up by Doris Miller, Barbara Fridham, David Kell and John Anderson.

The spots performed by the string ensemble was all the more interesting since it was composed by student Colin Bonneau who also played the piano for the ensemble and in the brass section of the band.

The title of this original selection was Ode to a Duck and, if the treatment seemed light, there was good reason. The Ode was used as an overture to the school festival play, The Neighbors, a comedy featuring a duck (or ducks).

The string ensemble had Roslyn Franklin as first violin, Melody Gokoy, second violin; Nancy Worden, cello; Laurence Lejeune, bass, and composer Colin Bonneau, piano.

Revolt Coming For Quebec

'Suicide Commando' Insists

MONTREAL (CP)—The French-language newspaper Le Presse Wednesday published an interview with a self-styled "suicide commando" and quotes him as saying "If the English won't understand, it will be the revolution."

The story quotes the revolutionary, identified only as "Claude," as saying about the use of violence in Quebec's separatist movement:

FOR EXAMPLE "Find me a revolution where blood has never flowed. There must be victims. A man like Donald Gordon (CNR president), for example, must be killed."

Police declined to comment on the story and there was no comment from the CNR or Mr. Gordon.

JOB TO INFORM

The newspaper carried the story under an editor's note saying: "Newspaper men are neither police agents nor informers. Their job is to inform. This is what they do here, as tablashing at the same time that the FLQ activists are not shots."

"Claude" was quoted as saying he is a member of the FLQ, a self-styled terrorist organization that has claimed credit for several minor bombings and threatened bombings in Quebec.

The initials stand for the Front de Liberation Quebecois (the Quebec Liberation Front).

The revolutionary was quoted as saying that Mr. Gordon is "the enemy No. 1 of French-Canadians."

His remark apparently resulted from a statement attributed to Mr. Gordon before the Commons railway committee that French-Canadians have not reached the CNR's upper echelons because of a shortage of qualified applicants. Mr. Gordon said then the trend would reverse itself in the next few years.

SOME WOMEN

The newspaper quotes "Claude" as saying the FLQ has about 50 members, including doctors, lawyers, painters, journalists and some women. Meanwhile police checked two more bomb threats.

The French-language radio station CJMS was told by an anonymous telephone caller that a bomb would explode in its studios.

WITHOUT INCIDENT

Most of the staff was evacuated and the station was searched. No bomb was found and the deadline passed without incident.

Police also searched a boys' school on Sherbrooke Street East but again no bomb was found.

Icebreaker Near Goal

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The government icebreaker Alexander Henry was plowing its way Wednesday through the Thunder Bay ice field toward Port Arthur harbor.

Already a dot in the vast ice field, reported to be about three feet thick in places, the ship was expected to make port today. In the harbor, the Henry will criss-cross through the harbor pack, to make it possible for cargo vessels to dock.

Publication Apologizes To Profumo

LONDON (Reuters)—British representatives of an Italian magazine offered unqualified apologies in court Wednesday to War Secretary Profumo for a recent article suggesting he may have had an improper relationship with a London model.

Profumo withdrew his libel action against distributors of the magazine Tempo Illustrato after their apology was read in court.

Profumo's counsel said an April 6 article repeated a rumor that Profumo was in some way connected with the failure of model Christine Keeler to appear to give evidence in a trial at the central criminal court here.

The article also suggested Profumo had or might have had some kind of illicit relationship with Miss Keeler.

Destroyers Here Today

Nearly 400 officers and men of the U.S. naval reserve will arrive at HMC Dockyard at noon today for a weekend visit.

The Victoria stopover is part of an operational exercise being carried out by two Fletcher-class destroyers, USS Laws from San Francisco and USS Colahan from Long Beach.

Reserve commander Capt. G. B. Hamilton Jr. will accompany the two ships. Skipper of the Laws is Cmdr. C. W. Wieser, Jr. and of the Colahan Cmdr. A. D. Wagner.

MALLORYVILLE, Ont. (UPI)—A dozen children who used their bodies Tuesday to shield a dog against shotgun-armed police apparently have won a battle to save the animal's life.

Spike, the part-German shepherd, had a licence and a home. Bruce McPherson, one of the children who saved his life, bought the licence with his allowance.

The home was provided by storekeeper Mrs. Orville Buell, who witnessed the incident.

Said Ontario provincial police Sgt. M. E. Armstrong, of nearby Brockville detachment: "As long as he stays tied up we won't bother him. We never really wanted to shoot the dog anyway. But we had no choice."

Saanich Council

$5,000 Widening Of Road Studied

Saanich council this month will consider spending $5,000 to remove a dangerous rock bank from a narrow section of Interurban Road, where two people were fatally injured March 30 in a car accident.

Removal of the rock was recommended by a meeting of Saanich public works committee this week.

Section of road involved is between Quale Street and West Saanich Road. Roadway at this point is some 13 feet wide.

Removal of the rock would enable council to widen the road to some 18 feet, engineer Neville Life said yesterday.

Prompted by a number of complaints about unsanitary conditions in the Willow-McBrier area, Saanich council will hold a public hearing to consider an $108,000 sewer extension.

Council will sit as Saanich board of health for the hearing, to be held later this month, probably April 28 or 30.

Saanich engineer Neville Life said yesterday some 104 houses are within the area which would be served by the sewer extension.

Cost to house owners would average out to $60 a year, he said.

Extension of a Saanich storm drain at a cost of $8,000 was recommended to council this week by a meeting of Saanich's public works committee.

Extension of the storm drain would overcome a serious drainage problem in the municipality, the committee was told.

Area involved is on Earl Grey Street, from Obed to Maddock Avenue.

Ferries, Planes

Easter Exodus Made Easier

Victorians will have increased travel facilities for their Easter holidays.

B.C. government ferries between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen will double their schedules by providing hourly service, both ways 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, from today until Monday.

Trans-Canada Air Lines will substitute a 118-seat Viking

Vanguard for the regular 51-seat Viscount for the Victoria-Vancouver route on one flight today and on one flight Monday. All other flights are regular.

A TCA spokesman said today's, Friday's and Sunday's flights have almost been booked to capacity.

Vancouver Island Coach

Lines have doubled their Vancouver service and yesterday reported a "heavy run." Their schedule runs parallel to the B.C. government ferry schedule.

For the rest of Vancouver Island routes, regular service is being maintained, but extra buses will be added whenever needed.

B.C. government ferry service from Departure Bay to Horseshoe Bay is adding four trips each way from today to Monday, with the Coach Lines following suit. This represents a 50-per-cent increase in service.

Washington State Ferries on their Sidney-Anacortes run will not add extra sailings, it was reported.

Pay Increases 'Not Justified'

Saanich Settles

Settlement of police and firemen's wages in Victoria automatically settled police and firemen's wages in Saanich, Reeve Stanley Murphy said last night.

"Our wages were anchored to Victoria's some four years ago," he said. "Our men get 55 per cent of the Victoria salaries."

"I don't know just how much more money this will cost us but it is not substantial."

There is "no real justification" for salary increases awarded city police and firemen by council last night, Mayor Wilson said Wednesday.

It will cost an additional $31,550 to meet the board's ruling that firemen receive an increase of 2.61 per cent and police get a 2.77 per cent boost.

The decisions will probably set the pattern for settlements with two other major civic unions, the bus and outside workers.

THREE-QUARTERS
If so, city officials said, total increases for 1963 will probably amount to $75,000, about three-quarters of a mill.

At present a first-class policeman earns $475. The increase will bring the monthly salary to $488.

A first-class fireman four years in the department earns $475. Increase will bring his pay to nearly $488.

NOT ANYWHERE

The mayor noted all four civic unions received a four per cent increase last year, and "the cost of living isn't rising at anywhere near the rate this latest award would suggest."

He said, "It's difficult to see where this trend may end," as long as the system requiring what amounts to arbitration for police and fire contract dispute is in effect.

NO APPEAL

Because each party appoints one member of the three-member board it is generally the chairman, appointed by the government, who in effect decides the award.

There is no appeal against the final ruling which, the mayor said, "is often a compromise... whether there is justification for the wage increase or not."

OUTSIDE CONTROL

"We are very concerned about the small taxpayer," said Mayor Wilson. "But the matter of police and fire wages is outside the control of city council."

The 100-member police union failed in its bid for parity with Vancouver.

NOT CHANGED

The 30-man firefighters union sought a 6.6 per cent boost plus a cut in working hours to a 42-hour week which would have required hiring 15 additional men. The board ruled hours of work would remain unchanged.

Four weeks holiday was given to those with more than 18 years service. It was formerly 30 years.

Who Gave Away The Daffodils?

Golden daffodils were bustled out all over at the Silver Thruway concert in the Kirk Hall on Courtney Street Wednesday afternoon.

"Two anonymous ladies appeared with armfuls of daffodils as members were making for the door after the concert," executive director Glen Hamilton said.

"They must have had a car full of them. Everybody got a bouquet. They wouldn't tell anybody who they were. We would like to thank them."

Until May 4 at Varsity

Exams Start Tuesday

Students at Victoria University will attend the final lectures of the winter session today.

The university will be closed for the long weekend from Friday until Tuesday, but it will not be a holiday for conscientious students.

The final examinations begin Tuesday.

The exams, which last an average of three hours each, will run until May 4.

After the exams the students will split up. Some will take permanent jobs, some will travel but most will find summer work to finance next year's studies.

The students plan to celebrate the end of exams with a dance in the evening of May 4 in the Curling Rink.

Saanich Detective Testifies

Charred, Bloody Mattress Exhibit in Dootson Trial

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

The charred, blood-spattered remains of a mattress were introduced as evidence Wednesday in the trial of Peter Howard Dootson on a charge of attempted murder.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aide at the Colquhoun Mental Home, is charged with attempting to murder fellow employee Robert Robinson Oct. 19 by beating him with a blunt instrument and setting fire to him.

In a court Saanich detective Robin Stewart described seeing Robinson with his head bloody and swollen when Det. Stewart arrived to investigate the case Oct. 19.

Near Ceiling

He also described Robinson's room, with blood spattered over a great area of wall and virtually to the ceiling in places and with the bed lamp and shade at the head of the bed "badly scorched and blackened."

He told of finding a mattress on the ground outside where it had been put after firemen apparently put out the fire, and of finding "a piece of material which appeared to be a piece of pillow heavily laden with blood" on it.

Det. Stewart testified he found the mattress smoldering later and that, when he first found the mattress, it was "not as badly burned as it is right now, but it was badly burned on both sides."

Spots on Legs

He said police also found a pair of tan corduroy trousers, with bloodspots on the legs, thrown on the grass elsewhere and he identified a pair produced in court as the same trousers.

He testified Dootson had told him Dootson had such a pair of trousers but had thrown them away because they were too big. Dealing with an iron bar produced in court earlier, the detective said Dootson said he had had such a bar but had thrown it away some two weeks before.

The detective described how Dootson led him and other officers to a place Dootson said he had thrown the bar away and said the officers were unable to find it there.

At Incinerator

Another witness, Kenneth Dickinson, an employee at the mental home, told of finding the bar Oct. 31 at an incinerator at the home.

Louis Van Hecke, another employee at the home, testified Dootson had asked him where one would hit a man to knock him out.

Det. Stewart said the night Robinson was hurt he had noticed Dootson in a mental home hallway. The detective said he noticed only Dootson was in street clothes. Every one else was nude but for towels or shorts.

The detective said that, on Oct. 22, when he was driving Dootson to the city police courtroom, Dootson asked him: "How is Robbie today?"

The detective testified: "I stated, 'Not very good.'"

"The accused said: 'Good. I hope the old bastard dies. Then they can hang me and get this over with.'"

Two others who had been in the car, another Saanich policeman and Saanich court reporter Thomas Nisbet, also testified, quoting Dootson to "virtually" the same effect.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Alan Bigelow, Mr. Nisbet said he didn't see Dootson's face when the remark was made and "I imagine it's possible" Dootson meant it in a joking way.

Small Sample

"At times," said Mr. Nisbet. During an evening session of the court, Edwin John Fernell, Vancouver police analyst, testified he had examined the trousers found near the mental home and found them and a small sample clipped from them, to have stains of what proved to be human blood.

He said he was unable to establish the blood type.

Earlier testimony was that Robinson has type B blood.

He testified he also examined stains, identified as having been scraped from three walls of Robinson's room.

Human Blood

One, he said, was type B human blood and the other two were human blood of which he could not determine the type.

He also testified about examining a pair of shoes. Earlier testimony was that Det. Stewart had removed the shoes from Dootson's room.

He said feathers adhering to the shoes, and a small piece of charred fabric adhering to one, were similar to feathers and fabric found on the piece of material previously identified as the one Det. Stewart found with the mattress.

Under cross-examination, he termed the type of feather very common.

Exhibit Six

He said: "I couldn't say definitely that they come from exhibit six (the piece of material)."

He said he also examined the iron bar and found on it traces of blood which were, however, so small that he was unable to identify the type, even as to whether it was human.

Several members of the Saanich police department gave evidence similar to parts of Det. Stewart's.

Presentation of evidence ended last night. Arguments by crown counsel Alan Bigelow and defence counsel Alan Bigelow, and Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins' charge to the jury are due today.

Parks Boss For Parley

Saanich parks superintendent A. E. Richmond has been picked to take part in a session on planning and development of camping facilities, part of the Northwest District Recreation and Parks Conference to be held in Eugene, Ore., April 21-24.

More than 400 experts from Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia will attend the conference.

Paintlift Still In Cards

Plans to give Victoria buildings a facelift with paint haven't been abandoned, but forgotten temporarily in the rush of work on the centennial civic centre. Ald. A. W. Toome said last night. "It is high time this was moving again," he said. "I am rather disappointed this is no further along but the civic centre and other things have taken up so much of the city hall staff's time."

MEETING WANTED

"I would like to have a meeting of the people concerned to get this under way again."

City planner Roderick Clark said paint for a pilot project has been donated and a Government Street building picked.

"There is a building next to it which is very similar architecturally and this would provide an excellent 'before-and-after' illustration."

HIDE THE GRIME

The plan, announced last year, is to repaint downtown buildings to brighten-up the streets, high-light architectural details similar to the painting on city hall and hide the grime.

It is based on a scheme used in Norwich, England.

Clearihue Silent

Judge J. E. Clearihue, recently-appointed Chancellor of Victoria University, declined last night to answer questions on whether university fees would rise.

He was approached for comment on a Vancouver report that the board of governors of the University of British Columbia was considering raising fees and modifying its present policy on admissions.

Out of Sight, Say Zoners

Ahoy, Skipper! Don't Berth Your Boat in the Driveway

Recommendation that a bylaw be passed forbidding boats to be left in driveways in Oak Bay was approved by the zoning and development committee of Oak Bay council last night.

The recommendation will be made to council probably at its next meeting.

ALARMING

"It is rather alarming to see massive boats on trailers stored at the side of homes for long periods of time," said Coun. J.

D. Watts, chairman of the committee.

"We are thinking of the day in the future when we have two-car families as well as two-car families and how properties will look with boats stored where they can be seen. Perhaps this in some measure reflects the prosperity of Oak Bay municipality," he added.

The committee generally felt boats stored in front or beside homes detracted from the beauty of the property.

A bylaw is already in effect in Oak Bay prohibiting cars being parked in the street for more than 24 hours. If the recommended bylaw goes through, Coun. Watts said this rule of no more than 24 hours parking will apply to boats and house trailers as well.

Imported Corned Beef

Hair Found in Can Second Time Here

For the second time in just over two weeks a can of imported corned beef has turned out to be a hairy experience for a Victoria housewife.

The surprised housewife this time was Mrs. Marlene Leenheer, 1433 Bay.

Mrs. Robert Fowler, 3851 Epsum Drive, found in a can of imported corned beef March 23 a piece of hide and matted animal hair.

Mrs. Leenheer was making lunch sandwiches Wednesday for her husband and son Ernest, 21.

"I started to slice the meat and couldn't get my knife through it," she said. "Then I saw what looked like the eyelashes of a cow and the half-round section of the lid, and a lot of black hairs."

"My son said he didn't want any more corned meat," she said. "My husband said to just throw it away."

"But I didn't. I took it back to the store and got my money back. I have another can here I haven't opened yet. I hope it's all right."

Building Immunity Better

U.S. Measles Vaccine Turned Down for B.C.

A new measles vaccine being distributed in the U.S. is "not recommended for use in B.C.," provincial deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor told the Colonist last night.

"We purposely don't recommend measles vaccine," he said. "We think it is better for people to build up their natural immunity."

The vaccine recently was licensed by the U.S. public health service and drug companies were reported speeding shipments to communities across the U.S.

"While the product was licensed in the U.S., we have not been informed by the Canadian food and drug authority whether it will be licensed in Canada," Dr. Taylor said.

Instead of a measles vaccine, a product called gammaglobulin is used in Greater Victoria, said Metropolitan Board of Health senior medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

"Gammaglobulin is a serum, not a vaccine," he said. "It is used here as a preventative only, for two groups: children under three years and children of any age who are suffering from an acute or a chronic illness."

"The serum will provide protective immunity for six weeks to two months only," Dr. Whitbread added.

"It has to be given within three days of exposure to measles," Dr. Taylor said. "If it is administered after six days, it will not immunize, only modify the severity of the measles infection."

"Incubation time for measles is generally 10 days," he added.

"I believe it costs around $14 a shot," Dr. Whitbread said. "It is administered free of charge by the area health departments."

"The amount of gammaglobulin available is restricted only to people who need it," said Dr. Taylor.

Basil FitzGibbon that Man in the Kitchen

The various recipes for tripe, extail, liver and other cheaper cuts of meat which have appeared in this column brought a number of requests for recipes for heart. This is most interesting because calf or beef heart can hardly be considered a best seller from the butchers point of view. There are many reasons why this should be a much more popular dish. It is a very economical item, rich in protein and iron, and is extremely beneficial as a dietary item. Perhaps confusion as to how to prepare it minimizes sales, or in certain instances a lack of courage is the answer. Calf or beef heart is readily available, and grows to be the most popular, but pork or lamb heart are also used. It may be fried, grilled, roasted or braised. Somewhat akin to liver in texture, heart nevertheless has a tantalizing flavor of its own. It is tremendously rich and the juices which accrue during roasting or braising make a superb foundation for most palatable sauces. Here are some recipes:

CALF'S HEART A L'ANGLOISE

(For four people)

One calf's heart, roasted butter, salt, pepper, freshly crushed bread crumbs.

Cut heart into slices $\frac{1}{2}$ " thick. Remove any clots of blood which may have formed in the centre between the compartments. Season with salt and pepper. Brush with melted butter. Roll in the bread crumbs, making sure that the slices are well covered. Grill under medium heat. Serve with slices of bacon and a dab of butter sauce.

CALF'S HEART IN CASSEROLE

One or more calf's hearts, 4 tbsps. butter, salt, pepper, 4 tbsps. stock.
Melt the butter in the casserole. Season the heart with salt and pepper and brown in the butter. Add the stock, cover and cook in a medium oven for forty minutes or until tender. Small potatoes and onions can be added to the casserole and cooked with the heart. Several slices of bacon will also add to the flavor. The natural juices make a good gravy which may be thickened if desired.

BOAST HEART

The roasting of heart is a simple matter and stuffing may be used. Most people use a bread stuffing, well seasoned, but the next time you cook a heart, try a stuffing made of half prunes and half dried apricots. This is a European method and very good it is. Once you have stuffed the heart, season it well with salt and pepper, sprinkle it with lemon juice and olive oil and allow to stand for thirty minutes. Cover with thin slices of salt pork or bacon and put into a heavy casserole. Cover and cook in a moderate oven for at least one hour, or until tender. Remove the heart to a platter and keep warm. Remove any surplus fat from the pan, juices and then thicken the gravy with sour cream. Serve the heart with baked potatoes and a tasty green vegetable. This dish is very rich and a simple dessert of fresh fruit or perhaps a stewed fruit to cleanse the palate is a sound idea. Bon appetit!

Party plans for food and games will be the theme of a Martha Logan cooking school to be held in the Memorial Arena on April 23. Martha Logan, famous home economist with a well known Canadian company, will feature home-style cooking and budget dishes that are economical for the family yet elegant enough for company. Each person who attends will receive a free recipe booklet and will have a chance to win an electric stove and other prizes.

Dummy to Test Peril

U.S. to Blow Up Reactor in Space

By JOSEPH L. MYLES

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. will rocket a dummy reactor to fiery destruction high in the air next week to demonstrate that nuclear power plants aboard spacecraft will pose no peril to earth when they fall out of orbit.

At about 4:15 p.m., Victoria time, Monday a Scout rocket will hurl the non-radioactive reactor mockup to an altitude of about 90 miles and then drive it down through the atmosphere at 14,000 miles an hour.

This will subject it to intense heating by air friction similar to that which an operating nuclear power plant would experience at the end of a mission aboard an orbiting spacecraft.

The flight test next week is being staged to verify these calculations.

Monday's launching will be with a four-stage Scout rocket from the Wallops Island (Va.) station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration 150 miles southeast of Washington.

The mockup will be almost identical to a real SNAP 10-A atomic power plant which will be flown in orbit aboard an air force spacecraft next year.

SNAP 10-A is capable of producing 500 watts of electricity for one to five years.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. David Eckford Kilgour, Winnipeg, announce engagement of their only daughter, Gellis McRae, to Mr. John Napier Turner, son of Mrs. Frank MacKenzie Ross and the late Mr. Leonard Hugh Turner and stepson of Hon. Frank MacKenzie Ross. The wedding will take place in St. Ignace Church, Winnipeg, on Saturday, May 11, at 2:30 p.m. Miss Kilgour spent two years at the University of Manitoba and obtained her bachelor of science degree from McGill University. The following year, Miss Kilgour participated in the Harvard-Radcliffe graduate program in business administration.

Mr. Turner was educated at Ashbury College and St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, and received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of British Columbia. He was appointed Rhodes scholar from UBC in 1949 and spent three years at Oxford University where he received his BA and BCL in law. After being called to the bar in London, England, Mr. Turner returned to Montreal where he has been practicing law. Elected member of parliament for the Montreal constituency of St. Lawrence-St. George on June 18, 1962, Mr. Turner was re-elected on Monday.

Hyacinths Presented at Tea

A corsage of pink and blue hyacinths and candytuft was presented to Mrs. Hans Kroenke at a shower in her honor at the Fernwood Road home of Mrs. Joan Alnagough. Refreshments featured a pink and blue decorated cake, baked by Mrs. William Greston. Mrs. Lorne Fleming made the corsage. Approximately 30 guests were present.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Pavey, of Yellow Point, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Karley Maxine, to Mr. Bernard Philip Weber, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Weber of Wilkie, Saskatchewan. The wedding will take place on Saturday, May 11, at 3:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Nanaimo, the Rev. Edward N. Broom officiating.

Afternoon Tea

Afternoon tea was enjoyed at the Dallas Road home of Mrs. Yvonne Savannah. Plans were discussed regarding decorations in the foyer at the Odeon Theatre for the forthcoming premiere of the film Black Tights. The musical stars Moira Shearer and Cyd Charisse and is narrated by Maurice Chevalier. It will be presented April 29 at 8:30 p.m. and is sponsored by the Symphony Women's Society.

Chilliwack To Be Home

Vancouver Island and North Vancouver shared interest in the marriage March 29 of Karen Dewa, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stenberg of North Vancouver, and formerly of Port Alberni, and James Macfarlane, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Macfarlane of North Vancouver, formerly of Victoria.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cream silk and wool boucle suit, accented by a corsage of tiny pink roses, pink flowered hat and matching gloves. Miss Pat Kenny, bridesmaid, was gowning in a honey gold sheath, with gold and green orchid corsage, and with the bride, added a springlike note to the morning setting of North Vancouver's Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

Julian Macfarlane, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a luncheon for 30 was held at the Park Royal Hotel on the Capilano River. Out-of-town guests included Mr. George Haddeland, uncle of the bride, from Vancouver, Washington, and Miss Stephanie King, who travelled from Port Alberni for the occasion. Mr. Haddeland proposed the toast to the bride. Telegrams of congratulations from the groom's grandparents, retired Supreme Court Justice the Hon. A. D. Macfarlane and Mrs. Macfarlane of Victoria, and uncle, Alan B. Macfarlane, MLA for Oak Bay, were read at the reception.

IODE Chapter Votes $160 for Education

At a monthly meeting of the Alden Hamber Chapter, IODE, $160 was voted for education. Of this amount $30 will be awarded as a bursary to a summer student at Victoria University continuing teacher training. A total of $100 is for Municipal Bursaries in Victoria high schools and $10 towards the Municipal Chapter Scholarship for Victoria University.

Mrs. J. S. White, educational secretary, will purchase a soft ball for one of the Chapter's adopted schools, Douglas Lake School, Merritt. Five books were forwarded to Fort Good Hope School, Northwest Territories. The IODE annual will be awarded as a bursary to a summer student at Victoria University continuing teacher training. A total of $100 is for Municipal Bursaries in Victoria high schools and $10 towards the Municipal Chapter Scholarship for Victoria University.

A spring tea will be given by the Women's Guild of St. John's Anglican Church in the parish hall on Wednesday, April 17, beginning at 2:30 p.m. Arranging the annual affair are, left to right, convenor Mrs. Austin Curtis, co-convenor Mrs. O. G. Batchelor and president Mrs. G. L. Hopkins. Serviteurs will be the ladies of the Guild. This organization was established in 1870.

Capacity Crowd Attends Spring Fashion Showing

A capacity crowd attended the Spring Fashion show and tea sponsored by the Young People's Union of Centennial United Church in the Howard Harris Building recently. In a setting of spring flowers and shrubbery banked around the stage, the models presented fashions from Mary Constance Dress Shop, and millinery from Ramble's.

The shift dress, the rajah ensemble, and the skinny coat were featured looks.

Highlights were a bouquet print dress in tones of green on white, worn with high rising pyramid hat in matching shades of green and white; a shift with citron yellow flowers on black, piped at neck and sleeves in citron; black linen sheath topped with 1/2 length rajah coat in white, and worn with tall coachman hat in straw; a navy V neck sweater coat dress, an Italian import, trimmed with gold military buttons, and worn with a wand, a shade crepe vest. This costume was topped with a flag red bowler hat.

A navy and white check little boy coat with matchbox plants, was worn with a navy straw sailor with white stitched trim.

The show closed with a bridal scene. The bride's gown featured a lace bodice with scalloped oval neckline and full gathered skirt of silk organza. Her full illusion veil misted over the face from a pill-box of lace flowers. The two bridesmaids wore dresses of mint green and sugar pink in sheath style, with short pop-over jackets and large picture hats in tone. Mother of the bride was in shell pink silk chignon, the planned lace bodice over a softly side-draped chiffon skirt. Her petalled pink hat was in pill-box style.

Reg Stone played the organ throughout the show and Helen Beirnes was commentator. During intermission Miss Muriel Bartram gave a group of vocal selections. Models were Alison Grant, Mary Smith, Judy Gibson, Anne Appleby, Mariel Bertram, Eleanor Mollett, Marilyn Wilkens, Mrs. Philips, Mrs. Parsons, Susan Wilkinson, Sheila Olson was convenor and Miss Jean Paddy was in charge of the tea. Mrs. Barbara Barr opened the affair.

B.C. Ws Conference

Mrs. R. C. Palmer, president of the provincial board of B.C. Women's Institutes, was guest speaker at the North Vancouver Island District Conference at Parksville.

Canon Leslie Grant, rector of St. Edmund's Anglican Church, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. W. Costa presided.

Mrs. Palmer, who represented B.C. Ws at the Associated Country Women of the World Conference in Australia last year, spoke about her trip to Melbourne, via Tokyo, Hong Kong and Bangkok and slides were shown illustrating this journey.

Hostess Institutes for the conference were Lesquest, Bella Bella, Bella Coola, Kle-Anch and Whaletown. Mrs. Jill Douglas, president of Whaletown, was their representative.

Doors Could Open Wider To Let Wheelchairs In

By GAY FAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Discrimination is a problem the handicapped also face, says a young polio victim who has written a specialized guide for residents of and visitors to the largest U.S. city.

Segregation is not confined to racial or religious minorities, said Sandra Schnur. "It goes for people in wheelchairs too."

PUBLIC PLACES

Miss Schnur, confined to a wheelchair since she had polio-myelitis in 1950, is the author of a 70-page pocket guide called "New York With Ease." It covers public places—restaurants, theatres, museums, hotels, stores, beauty shops, movies, sight-seeing trips, sports arenas—telling how best the handicapped person can visit them.

This is Miss Schnur's second work on the subject of interest to the handicapped, telling what buildings have ramp facilities, whether there is no step, one step, two, three or four steps involved in getting in and out of a building. In short, a report on architectural barriers the handicapped person faces.

CHANGED ATTITUDE

The first was in 1956. "I've seen quite a change in the attitude of people since then," said the Bronx girl of "21-plus" years. "When I was doing research on the first one, I'd ask about the number of steps or width of a door... would a wheelchair go through?... and they'd hang up."

PHONE VISITS

"Now, the attitude is quite changed."

Miss Schnur did research by telephone and through visits, and friends supplied additional information for the guide, which is published by the Association for Crippled Children and Adults of New York State, Inc.

THANK OFFERING

Women are invited to take part in the second Easter Thank Offering service on April 15, at 2 p.m. in the Sanctuary of Metropolitan United Church. Rev. E. Laura Butler will be speaker. Mrs. D. M. Wallace will lead the devotional and Mrs. J. V. Ball will be soloist. Tea will be served in Pendray Hall after the service.

Here she is . . . basic design for flower girl contest.

Flower Girl Contest Open

Shown here is a basic design for Victoria's flower girl. A contest has been announced with prizes to be awarded in teen-age, adult and professional categories.

First prizes will consist of weekends up-island for two in leading resorts. Second prizes in all categories will include arts and crafts tools, paints, snails and materials.

Artists are invited to sketch or paint the flower girl in the Art League Studios, 1108 Broad Street. The flower girl will pose each Friday this month, from 1:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the studios for any artist, amateur or professional, who care to sketch her.

Deadline for entries is May 10. All work will be exhibited in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company May 15 and 16.

The flower girl may be depicted in her frilled summer frock of dainty pink, or in her winter costume of deep wine velvet.

She may be worked up in embroidery, copper work, needlepoint, fresco, sculpture, ceramics, woodcarving, painting, sketches, dolls, rugs, tile and any other medium suitable.

Copies of designs are available at department stores including the Bay, and at hobby and needlework shops for 15 cents, together with entry forms, which are free.

Last tourist season, the flower girl, a feature on the Causeway, gave away close to 100,000 roses and carnations to individual tourists. Objective of the flower girl committee is to raise funds to keep her on the waterfront during the tourist season again this year and to encourage development of arts and crafts around the flower girl theme.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not a prude, nor am I the type to poke my nose into other people's business, but I value your opinion and would like your views.

A friend of mine who is single and in her middle thirties has her own apartment. This friend is acquainted with a rather attractive gentleman about 40. He is a bachelor and has an apartment in the same building. I live in the building, too—down the hall from the gentleman.

The other evening I came home later than usual—about 11 p.m. I was shocked to see this woman, dressed for bed, nightgown, bathrobe, and slippers, just about to enter the man's apartment.

Without the slightest hint of embarrassment she greeted me wearily and announced, "My TV broke down and Reginald invited me down to see the late movie."

This struck me as indecent. Or am I living in—THE DARK AGES?

Dear Ages: In our society, most people dress for the occasion. When one wears a ski suit folks just naturally assume he is going skiing. A person in shoulder pads and shin guards looks ready for ice hockey.

Your friend used poor judgment.

Dear Ann Landers: I married a widow three years ago. My wife passed away in 1958, the same year her husband died. My own two sons have graduated from college and are on their own. My wife's two sons are 11 and 14 years of age. I love her boys as much as I love my own. They are devoted to me and we have a wonderful relationship.

I want to adopt my wife's sons legally and change their name to mine. My wife is against it because she's afraid her former father-in-law will cut the boys out of his will if they do not carry on his family name. (They are the last of his heirs.)

While there is considerable wealth there I don't feel this is important. I am well able to support these boys, educate them and do all the necessary things. My pride is involved. What do you say?—DAD.

Dear Dad: Your sons will carry on your family name. It is not unreasonable for this grandfather to want his son's boys to carry on his family name.

Unless the boys express a strong desire to have their names changed, I recommend that you disregard the financial advantages and respect the old gentleman's wishes.

Confidential to INQUIRITIVE DOUBLE DOME: Tell your friends all kinds of people read this column for all kinds of reasons. It is amazing that he describes your interest in this column as "the morbid curiosity of an eavesdropper or a window-peeper," while he claims his interest is that of a "sociologist who wishes to explore behavior problems of the masses." Applausage.

CAREERS IN SEWING Opportunities for careers in the home sewing field are many, and a basic sewing course at school, college or your local sewing centre can lead to well-paid positions with pattern and fabric houses, sewing machine manufacturers, designers, department stores, magazines and advertising agencies.

Itch? Don't Smoke

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—only was to scratch it is with another cigarette." This "scratching" isn't the answer and they should stop smoking, a Swedish physician said Wednesday in describing a 10-day clinic course designed to help smokers break their habit.

6,000 ATTEND
In the last seven years, 6,000 Swedes have attended the clinics, and 88 per cent initially were weaned away from tobacco entirely, said Dr. Borje Ejrup of the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm.

But within a year, 50 per cent were found to be backsliding. Now the treatment includes periodic visits to the clinic, Dr. Ejrup told an American Cancer Society seminar.

GET INJECTIONS
In the 10-day $30 treatment each person receives daily injections of nicotine or a nicotine derivative, adjusted to supply the amount of nicotine he had been getting from cigarettes, Dr. Ejrup said.

This is aimed at relieving the craving.

NAUSEA OCCURS
"The desired saturation point is reached when a slight feeling of nausea occurs when an attempt to smoke is made."

A tranquilizer and appetite-depressing drug also are used.

Drunkometer Can Help Save Lives of Injured

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Property administered drunkometer tests would aid in law enforcement and help save the lives of injured motorists, a Canadian medical expert said Wednesday.

Dr. H. Ward Smith, chief of the Ontario attorney-general's laboratory, told a state Senate subcommittee that an ordinary examination by a doctor or police officer can't always tell the difference between an intoxicated and an injured man.

Fishermen Lost

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) — Nine fishermen were reported missing in northern Iceland after a gale and heavy snowstorm interrupted Iceland's best spring weather since 1953.

Noted Policeman, Frank Leslie Dead

A famed former policeman and longtime Victoria resident Frank Leslie died here suddenly yesterday afternoon. He was 80.

He was born in Lincolnshire and served on the county constabulary as a young man.

He travelled to Shanghai where he served four years on the police force, before coming to western Canada where he joined the Alberta Provincial Police.

He left the provincial police with the rank of chief detective and became chief of police of Prince Albert, Sask., for the next 15 years.

Mr. Leslie was a life member of the Chief Constables Association of Canada and a pioneer in the scientific approach to crime problems.

He was working on a book of his many interesting police experiences at the time of his death.

Mr. Leslie played a key part in many famous cases during his years in police work. Accounts of a few of these appeared in recent editions of The Daily Colonist Sunday magazine, The Islander.

TO GET MEDALLION

Mr. Leslie was to have been presented with a 50-year medallion for service in the Masonic lodge. The medallion will be presented during the funeral service. He was one of the original members of the Masonic lodge in Shanghai. He is survived by his wife, Margaret at home, 806 Linden, two sons, Douglas, of Vancouver, and Stanley, of Ottawa, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel at 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

New help for the MISERY OF PSORIASIS

New healing preparation works 3 ways at once to help clear up the symptoms of PSORIASIS

Clinically tested. Your money back if TEGRIN does not give relief. Psoriasis can leave your skin so crusty and scaly you feel embarrassed, self-conscious, ill at ease. But now, there is new help for psoriasis sufferers — a new clinically tested healing preparation called TEGRIN.

Unique triple-action cream

TEGRIN is an efficient cream you can purchase at all drug counters. So easy and pleasant to use — even on the scalp — with no lingering medical smell or stain. And it's effective because it works three ways at once:

1. Scale removal and itch control — the use of TEGRIN helps to relieve itching promptly; scales and crust "pile-ups" are loosened and come away.
2. Healing of the skin — the soothing action of TEGRIN speeds improvement by encouraging the natural ability of the skin tissue to recover and heal itself.
3. Prevention of recurrent scales — timely re-application of TEGRIN provides a special preventive action that opposes and helps block off the formation of new scales.

Dramatic clearing reported

Before its introduction, the TEGRIN formula was subjected to exhaustive investigation. Extensive clinical tests were conducted. The results of these studies showed the TEGRIN formula to be effective in relieving psoriasis. Clinical reports dealing with the results of treatment show that the TEGRIN formula has an impressive achievement record.

The manufacturers of TEGRIN sincerely believe this is one of the most effective medications ever developed to give relief and control of psoriatic skin disturbances. If after a fair trial, the user is not satisfied with TEGRIN, the manufacturer will refund the cost of the purchase.

So why suffer from the miseries of psoriasis? For effective relief, get new TEGRIN today.

Here are the 13 spots where psoriasis most often starts:

- | | |
|---------------|---------------|
| (1) scalp | (8) back |
| (2) neck | (9) mid areas |
| (3) shoulders | (10) knees |
| (4) elbows | (11) thighs |
| (5) arms | (12) legs |
| (6) hands | (13) feet |
| (7) chest | |

But no matter where psoriasis may strike, new TEGRIN brings symptomatic relief.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Blind Negro singer Al Hibbler was left standing on the sidewalk Wednesday for the second successive day while police carted off 27 of his colleagues for staging another segregation protest demonstration.

The new arrests brought to nearly 150 the number of demonstrators taken into custody since last week when Dr. Martin Luther King renewed a desegregation drive in this steel town.

A spokesman said the drive began because downtown Birmingham is a segregated city.

chanta reneged on a promise to desegregate lunch counters and restaurants.

Wednesday's demonstrators were lined up against the wall of a bus station while police took down their names.

"Don't put that blind man in jail. Just let him stand over there. We'll handle him," said police commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor.

Connor told Hibbler: "We ain't got anything you can do over there (jail). You stand right there where you are and we'll take care of you."

Hibbler asked Connor to be taken to jail, but Connor replied: "What can you do? Anybody who goes to jail has to earn his food."

"I can sing," Hibbler replied. "We don't have any room for that over there," Connor responded.

Film Tells Story Of D-Day

The story of D-Day, June 6, 1944, will be told starting today in Darryl Zanuck's film epic, The Longest Day, which revives on the screen the Allied armies' invasion of Normandy.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Rear Admiral W. M. Landy-

more, Lt.-Col. G. G. Brown and Air Commodore G. G.

Truscott have been invited to attend the first performance at 8:15 p.m. at the Royal Theatre.

The four Greater Victoria reaves are also mentioned on the honor guest list.

Twelve paintings in tempera of the Japanese Tosa school, illustrating the Festivals of the 12 Months, have been received from Mrs. Isabel Ford-lard of San Francisco on permanent loan to the Art Gallery and are now on view in the Ker Wing.

They show the charm and delicacy of the best tradition of the Tosa school with emphasis on color and decorative clarity of brush work and cleanliness of treatment are qualities both physically and

A revival of interest in Chi-

the 18th century did their best to be as Chinese as possible.

But there is a great deal of difference in the feeling of the

CHIP, WHAT ARE YOU GIBBLING ABOUT?

BECAUSE I PUT ONE OVER ON YOU! (HEE-HEE!)

I KEPT OUT OF YOUR SIGHT UNTIL DINNER, AND YOU FORGOT TO TELL ME TO WASH UP!

WELL, I FIGURED OUT ONE PART OF THE PROBLEM—NOW I'LL HAVE TO WORK ON THE OTHERS!

YOU'LL CONTINUE TO BE VERY HAPPY IN YOUR RAVINE, ELIZABETH! THE ONLY THING THAT'LL UPSET YOU IS THE REACTION OF ONE NAME—THE NAME LOLA LAROC!

REMEMBER THE NAME LOLA LAROC? IT WILL DEPRESS YOU AND CAUSE YOU TO CRY!

YOU BURY YOURSELF NOW, ELIZABETH! WAKE UP, HAPPY AND SMILING! I'LL WANT TO SEE YOU TOMORROW AGAIN AT THREE!

WANTS THE DESIGN FOR $99,000.00 FOR LUNCH WITH THE SPINNY-THICKER-NECK!

I SOLD HIM ABOUT 200 BUCKS WORTH OF SPINNY-THICKER-NECKS.

YES—WELL, THAT'S ONE—WHAT A SPINNY-THICKER-NECK!

HOW CAN YOU BE SO SURE? I DON'T KNOW WHY YOU'RE SO SURE!

YES—BUT I KNOW I CAN BE SURE! I KNOW I CAN BE SURE!

THAT'S REASSURING! BUT I DON'T KNOW WHY YOU'RE SO SURE!

I DON'T BUT I KNOW I CAN BE SURE! I KNOW I CAN BE SURE!

THEN WE'LL WELCOME YOU ABOARD THE SMOCCO AT SAILING TIME, MR. KIRBY?

I'LL BE THERE WITH THE CHANGING TIDE, MISS GLENN.

I DON'T FANCY BEING ON THE SAME SHIP WITH HER, BUT IT'S ONE WAY TO MEET SPINNY-THICKER-NECK AND SQUARE ACCOUNTS.

ISN'T THAT A LAUGH, FATHER? GIVES TAKE DETECTIVE ON CRUISE TO GUARD AGAINST PRATE!

IN MYSTICAL.

THIS EXERCISE IS SUPPOSED TO HELP CONTROL MY FIGURE.

GUANT! PUFF! GROWL!

OH, IT'S NO USE! MY FIGURE IS TOO FAR...

OUT OF CONTROL!

DON'T YOU HAVE THE CONFERENCE IN BILL TO BELIEVE THAT HE CAN HELP DOWN HIS GLIP JOB, MARY?

YES, BUT I THOUGHT HE SHOULD WANT BEFORE RETURNING TO WORK!

WHAT SHOULD HE WANT FOR? DON'T YOU REALIZE THAT THE LONGER HE STAYS AWAY FROM WORK, THE MORE DIFFICULT IT'LL BE TO RETURN?

MEANWHILE...

COME ALONG, BILL! I'M GOING TO HAVE YOU WORK WITH HANDED OFFICER ON THE COUNTY BRIDGE JOB. FOR THE FIRST COUPLE OF DAYS UP LIKE YOU TO POSSIBLE CHECK THE SPECIFICATIONS!

AH, GOT YOU DOWN FOR ONE LITTLE PINE BOX, WIF BRASS HANDLES.

OH—SPINNY-THICKER-NECK, FOR WHITTAM IS ABOUT TO DO IT.

—BUT, YOU WOULDN'T WANT ME TO BREAK A CORPSE ON CATH, WOULD YOU?

HEVVIN' FORBID!

DASHWOOD, CAN I SLEEP ON YOUR BORA TONIGHT?

A LITTLE DOMESTIC TROUBLE, HEH?

YEA—IT WAS TOOTSIE'S BIRTHDAY TODAY.

YOU FORGOT HER BIRTHDAY?

YEA, BUT THAT'S NOT WHAT MADE HER SO MAD.

SHE'S MAD 'CAUSE I FORGOT HER BIRTHDAY BUT REMEMBERED HER AGE.

I BOUGHT A NEW SPRING CUPPIE! I WAS GETTING STEREO-TYPED!

THE JACKIE LOOKS POSITIVELY STEREO-PRONIC!

THE VERY LATEST STYLE! YOU'LL HAVE THE BEST-DRESSED ESCORT TONIGHT, MARY!

WELL, ARCHIE, WE'RE OFF TO THE PARTY!

WHAT'S MARY'S COSTUME?

BOO! BOO!

WHAT'S WRONG, ADMIRAL? YOU LOOK SAD.

YES, ABERNATHY! I FEEL VERY LONELY.

NONSENSE, ADMIRAL! YOU'RE AN OLD NAVY MAN—DON'T YOU HAVE A GIRL IN EVERY PORT?

OF COURSE I DO.

...BUT UNFORTUNATELY, I HAVEN'T BEEN OUT OF THIS PORT FOR TWENTY YEARS!

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, F.R.S.E.

It is verboten to do any weeding or cultivating in the strawberry patch when the plants are coming into blossom. If the patch is weedy, therefore, the job of clearing it up should be given top priority as the ground will have time to settle before the critical blossoming period arrives.

Ground frost while the plants are in blossom is an ever-present menace to the strawberry crop, and the danger is greatest on freshly stirred soil. Undisturbed soil holds the sun's warmth pretty well through the night, but on newly cultivated ground the increased radiation and loss of heat may cause the temperature to drop to a dangerously low level, with the consequent blighting of the blossom.

Most strawberry beds will need some attention at this time of the year, especially when a wet fall and winter has packed and compacted the surface since the late autumn clean-up. In such circumstances, after the removal of dead leaves from the plants and any rubbish or litter which may have accumulated on the bed, the surface should be lightly and shallowly pricked over with a fork, at the same time working in a dressing of a good general fertilizer.

The exception to this treatment arises when the bed was given a generous dressing of old manure after the autumn clean-up. In this case, leave well enough alone, for the less the surface is disturbed, the better. All that is required is to take off any dead leaves from the strawberry plants and remove any loose, dry material from the manure mulch. This will do the plants until the time comes to bed down with straw.

If you set out strawberry plants last fall, they should be looked over carefully for evidence of heaving or lifting during last January's frosty spells, and any plants which have heaved themselves up out of the ground should be firmed down with the feet before hoeing.

Should the blossoms be picked off newly planted strawberries? The garden books are quite firm and specific on this point. Plants set out this spring should have ALL the blossoms taken off this summer. Plants set out in late September should have the first flush of blossoms taken off, but may be permitted to make a small late crop. Only plants which have been established since last August or earlier can be permitted to bear a full crop.

This is what the book says. Personally, when I first started growing strawberries, I spent many arduous and uncomfortable hours crawling around the beds on my hands and knees snipping off blossoms with my wife's manicure scissors, following the book in all particulars.

Later, as I grew older—and lazier—it seemed just a bit ridiculous to go to all this trouble to frustrate the efforts of a little strawberry plant which was trying to make fruit for my table. I said "The heck with it!" and quit de-blossoming, and I can't say I have noticed the slightest difference in the overall crop. The first berries picked from new plants are perhaps a little on the small side, but they make good eating and there are more of them.

JOHN CROSBY Gets Lesson from Strolling Harry

Paris Slows You Down

Sitting, Observing, Idling, Great Art

PARIS—Harry Kurnitz is a five-year man. You can tell he's lived in Paris that long by the pace. Slow, very slow. Paris is a stroller's town. But it takes a while—sometimes years—to learn how to stroll as slowly as Harry. Taken not only years of living here but great natural gifts.

I am consumed with admiration at the stately way Harry gets from here to there.

He stops to stare into a butcher's window. He stares fixedly. Minutes pass. What is he looking at in a butcher's window?

I ask him: "Harry, how can you spend 10 minutes staring into a butcher's window? What are you doing?"

"Comparing prices. They're getting more for shoulder of veal in this butcher shop than they are down the street. Then, noticing my blank look, he adds: 'You've got to fill up the day somehow. If you go rushing through it, you're done for.'"

It takes years of living here to reach this state of equilibrium. Not to go rushing at things. Stare at a piece of meat with the respect and deliberation it deserves. Not with any idea of buying it. No practical considerations at all. Just evaluate it. Examine its texture. Look for the imperfections. Is it overpriced? Underpriced? Take your time. Don't want to reach any hasty decisions. Then proceed to the next piece of meat. Gaze. Evaluate. Weigh. Compare.

Kurnitz figures that Paris has added years to his life, slowing his pace. Besides strolling, he's very gifted at sitting and staring. If I'm consumed with admiration for the way that man strolls, I'm stupefied with astonishment at the way he sits.

"The other day," he told me, "I took my newspaper to a sidewalk cafe. I was there 2½ hours, never even opened the paper."

Good heavens! I'm a 20-minute man myself over a cup of coffee in a sidewalk cafe. Even then, the last five minutes are a struggle. I have that horrible feeling that something, somewhere, is being left undone and I should rush off and do it. You have to fight these feelings down. Takes years.

Delight in sitting still, doing exactly nothing, except breathing, takes serenity of spirit. God knows where that comes from, but my own theory—sitting in the face of cherry-men and psychiatrists—is that it depends on the barometer. Cafe-sitting is essentially people-watching, rather than thing-watching. When looking at things (like shoulders of veal) you have to provide your own locomotion, however slow. But people-watching is easier because they provide their own locomotion and you just sit still, appreciating them.

In fact, I'm sitting here in a cafe writing this, breathing slowly, appreciating.

Speaking of locomotion, look at the play of that girl's hips. Sort of a one-two-three beat there. Up, down, sideways. If I were a mathematician, I could evolve a whole theorem of motion—say minus P equals forward motion squared—something like that.

Fortunately, I'm not at all mathematically inclined. Otherwise I'd go flying after that thought, furiously calculating. And we can't have that. Got to slow the thought down, as well as the pace. Fortunately, the girl's gone, she and her distracting hips.

I fail to contemplate something quieter—the texture of old man's brow with its wild whorl of wrinkles. Must have taken a heap of living to get a mass of wrinkles in that particular pattern of convolutions.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Sybil to Make Movie?

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Mrs. Sybil Burton is listening to stage and film offers. Richard stated not long ago, "The only reason Sybil dropped her acting career is that she didn't want to put me in the shade." They met while appearing in a play and Sybil is said to be a good actress. But she would rather be a good wife and mother.

Universal has not created a big male star for female for that matter since Jack Hudson and Tony Curtis. They think they have something in young Paul Carr. He is making his first movie, Captain Newman, M.D., with Gregory Peck and Tony Curtis. After which he joins Ben Giamara and Chuck Connors in the Arrest and Trial series.

The Dinah Shore-George Montgomery divorce is final May 9. George always the gentleman will allow Dinah to pick up the final papers. And it would be rather hard for him to do this, in any case, because he will be in Chicago, starting in King of Hearts.

Clint Walker will star for writer-producer Robert Florenz in their production Star in the Rigging—about the Texas navy.

Marlon Brando is so determined to change his image from a surly, unco-operative actor, that he has for the first time in his career, hired a personal press agent who has been with him on his tour abroad to publicize The Ugly American. It should be re-titled, The Nice American.

Famela Mason is writing a book, Home James and Don't Spare the Horses. Apart from her recently concluded marriage with James Mason, the book should be interesting. Pam has a sharp mind and a caustic wit.

Remy Schneider will play opposite Paul Berks in The Snow Leopard to be made in Holland this summer. "I've never met her," Paul told me, "but my wife insisted on coming with me. She must be very pretty." She is.

How coincidental can we get? In Who's Been Sleeping in my Bed, Mrs. Gig Young, La Montgomery, goes to Tijuana, Mexico, to get a quickie divorce from Dana Martin. In real life, Liz did exactly that, shedding Mr. Young.

Fred Zimmerman is about to take his $30,000,000 Hawaii project away from United Artists because he wants to make two pictures of the James Michener best seller. UA and the Mirisch Brothers feel that would be a gamble and the picture should be one long, long epic of four or five hours. . . . In this argument I go along with Fred. Five hours is too long for any picture. One's sitting area simply cannot take it.

That pretty Remy Schneider, had a run-in with the French police. She was transporting too many doggone passengers in her small sports car, and they were a traffic hazard, the gendarmes told her, obstructing her rear window. The passengers were two bulldogs and two spaniels.

Book of Aphorisms Bedside Feast

By EUDOLF FLEISCH

The ideal bedside book is one you can dip into anywhere and come up with a satisfying morsel—like the new Viking Book of Aphorisms by W. H. Auden and Louis Kronenberger. It's a regular feast.

Here's a sampling:

Monkeys very sensibly refrain from speech, lest they should be set to earn their livings.—GRAMHAM.

Those who counsel do not pay.—FLAMISH PROVERB.

The chief phenomenon in our days is the sense of the provocation.—BURCKHARDT.

May you have a lawsuit in which you know you are in the right.—GYPSY CURSE.

There is not the least use in preaching to anyone unless you chance to catch them ill.—SYDNEY SMITH.

Next to the wound, what women make best is the bandage.—BARBEY D'AUREVILLE.

That which, perhaps, hears more silly remarks than any thing else in the world, is a picture in a museum.—THE BROTHERS GONCOURT.

He who knows how to be poor knows everything.—MICKLETT.

Tyranny is always better organized than freedom.—PEGUY.

How much depends on the way things are presented in this world can be seen from the very fact that coffee drunk out of wine-glasses is really miserable stuff, as is meat cut at the table with a pair of scissors. Worst of all, as I once actually saw, is butter spread on a piece of bread with an old though very clean razor.—LICHTENBERG.

Civilization aims at making all good things accessible even to cowards.—NIETZSCHE.

Our most important thoughts are those which contradict our emotions.—VALERY.

God will provide—ah, if only He would! He does so!—YIDDISH PROVERB.

The handwriting on the wall may be a forgery.—HODGSON.

A taste for dirty stories may be said to be inherent in the human animal.—GEORGE MOORE.

In a good play, everyone is in the right.—HEBBEL.

The woman whose behavior indicates that she will make a scene if she is told the truth asks to be deceived.—ELIZA BETH JENKINS.

Connoisseurs think the art is already done.—CONSTABLE.

There is nothing more likely to drive a man mad than an obstinate, constitutional preference of the true to the agreeable.—HAZLITT.

There are people who go look at gardens and fountains while empires are being overthrown.—CHATEAUBRIAND.

Heart Attack Hits Vanier

VANIER
... mild seizure

Word of Gen. Vanier's illness was not disclosed until last night, when it was learned he had cancelled all public engagements for the next six weeks.

However, Government House sources stressed the 74-year-old major-general was quite capable of carrying on the official duties of his office.

IF NECESSARY

These, they admitted, could include a visit from Prime Minister Diefenbaker if necessary and swearing in of a new cabinet if Liberal leader Lester Pearson is called upon to form a government.

The prime minister was not available for a statement on the illness of the white-haired general who has captured the affection of Canadians during his term of office.

Mr. Pearson expressed "great shock" at hearing of the governor-general's heart attack.

Douglas: We'll Work This Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Rule changes to increase Parliament's efficiency were proposed Wednesday night by the leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties and by a leading Liberal.

Both T. C. Douglas of the NDP and Robert Thompson of Social Credit also expressed hope for stability of government despite the uncertain results of Monday's federal elections.

MORATORIUM

"I think we're going to work this out," said Mr. Douglas.

Mr. Thompson added that there should be a moratorium on elections and a "working arrangement" in Parliament.

They appeared on the CBC television network program Newsmagazine along with Walter Gordon, re-elected in Toronto Davenport, and considered a likely choice for the finance portfolio in any new Liberal government.

JOBS FIRST

Questioned about the initial program of a new Liberal government, Mr. Gordon said the priority would be given to measures to stimulate the economy and provide more jobs.

Liberal Leader Pearson's campaign promise to set up a municipal development bank would be one of the first pieces of legislation to be brought into Parliament, Mr. Gordon said.

UNTIL WINTER

"If we don't do it now—within the next few weeks—its effects will not begin to be felt until next winter."

In brief statements concluding the 30-minute interview program, Mr. Douglas stressed the need of measures to provide jobs and Mr. Thompson said one of the key requirements in leadership in Parliament.

Worst Undersea Tragedy First for Nuclear Fleet

A-SUB, 129 MISSING

Missing Nuclear Sub Passed This Earlier Test

Slick 'Means Disaster'

Cross section of the Atlantic Ocean showing the location of the missing nuclear submarine. The map indicates the submarine's last known position in the Atlantic Ocean, south of Nova Scotia.

BOSTON (UPI)—Capt. Bill Hill, commander of the first U.S. Naval District, here, said Wednesday night an oil slick indicates the sub Thresher met with disaster.

"The oil slick is the thing that's the tipoff we have a disaster here," he said.

He said the fact the oil slick was in the vicinity of the vessel's last known position indicated to officials it came from the Thresher.

NEVER A REMUE

Capt. Hill said if rescue operations were possible a diving bell could descend to about 1,000 feet. But he said this was merely the capability of the bell and there had never been a rescue at that depth.

The Thresher is believed to have gone down in waters about 3,400 feet deep.

Hill said the lack of communication with the Thresher virtually eliminated all hope for the men aboard.

He said it had not been ruled out that the oil slick might have been released by a commander might take any measures he saw fit to attempt to communicate with potential rescuers.

Under emergency conditions, he said, a sub commander might take any measures he saw fit to attempt to communicate with potential rescuers.

Loss Worse Than War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The worst recorded submarine disaster, the wartime sinking of the USS Argonaut by the Japanese in 1943, cost the lives of 102 men—28 fewer than are aboard the missing Thresher.

Two other U.S. submarines have gone to untimely ends in New England waters north of the area where the search for the Thresher was going on. These were the Squalus, which sank off Portsmouth, N.H., in 1939 with a loss of 28 lives, and the O-9 which sank in a test dive off Maine in 1941 with 33 fatalities.

Other major submarine disasters and their death tolls:

- 1955—British sub Siron, exploded off Portland, England; 13.
- 1954—Turkish sub Dumitupinar, collided with a Swedish ship in the Dardanelles; 81.
- 1952—French sub La Sibylle, lost off Toulon; 48.
- 1951—British sub Affray, English Channel; 75.
- 1950—British sub Truculent, Thames Estuary; 65.

- 1939—French sub Phenix, off Indo-China; 63.
- British sub Thetis, sunk in Irish Sea; 98.
- Japanese sub I-43, Bungo Channel; 51.
- 1932—British sub M-2, off Portland Bill, England; 60.
- 1931—Russian sub No. 9, Gulf of Finland; 35.
- 1928—French sub Ondine, off Portugal; 43.
- Italian sub F-14, in Adriatic Sea; 31.
- 1927—U.S. sub S-4, off Provincetown, Mass.; 40.
- 1925—British sub M-1, English Channel; 60.
- U.S. sub S-51, collided with steamer City of Rome off Black Island; 34.

British System

Two Cabinets Pearson Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Confident he will soon be asked to form a government, Liberal leader Pearson said Wednesday he plans to begin fashioning his ministry this weekend.

This delicate task of matching talents with the need for geographical and religious balance in the cabinet likely will extend into next week, aides indicated.

INNER, OUTER

It is understood Mr. Pearson will attempt a new governmental structure, involving a larger number of portfolios and at the same time an "inner" and "outer" cabinet.

This would be comparable to the British system that he is known to regard highly.

FIVE AND 10

The inner cabinet could mean a working policy group with Mr. Pearson and between five and 10 of his top ministers.

Diefenbaker Watching And Waiting

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker "flew back to Ottawa Wednesday and said he intends to "meet the cabinet and watch the developments."

"I will determine on the basis of coming events the course to be followed," he said. "You will have to wait for the eventualities to realize what they are."

Mac-Powell Profit 'Embarrassing'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An often bullheaded former logger made a quiet pitch Wednesday for the "loyal group" of employees of Mac-Millan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

Gordon Gibson, Liberal M.L.A. for North Vancouver, suggested to company chairman J. V. Cline at the company's annual meeting that Mac-Powell consider a share-purchase plan for employees.

"Our profits have risen to almost an embarrassing level," Mr. Gibson said. "We need as many shareholders in B.C. as possible. I suggest a distribution of shares to our employees, the most loyal group of employees any company ever had."

Mr. Cline said the company had no intention at present of acquiring any large company.

He said he felt no embarrassment at Mac-Powell's profits—$30,081,800 in 1962.

Canada Ready To Help

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy said Wednesday night ships of the Atlantic Command were standing by in case the U.S. Navy asks for Canadian assistance in the search for the missing atomic submarine Thresher.

Also ready to sail was the British submarine Auriga, based here.

Bold Pilot Lands in Tunnel

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A crippled plane with a pilot ailed through a 115,000-volt power line, thrashed along above a busy highway and zipped into a mountain highway tunnel to land Wednesday after its engine failed over the Rocky Mountains.

Pilot Fritz Hansen, 33, of Cheyenne, Wyo., escaped with cuts and bruises. Passenger Walter Johnson, 30, of Aurora, Colo., was injured.

The engine of their Cessna 172 failed while they were flying at 1,500 feet over this mountain city 43 miles west of Denver.

Hansen said he had been flying for 13 years without incident.

Typhoid Ended

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—The typhoid epidemic at Zermatt can be considered ended, the Swiss federal health office announced Wednesday.

It said there had been no fresh cases in the epidemic-stricken resort in the first week of this month.

16 Lost At Sea

REYKJAVIK (AP)—Gales whipped up mountainous seas off Iceland and reports reaching here Wednesday night said six fish boats have gone down with losses of at least 16 crew members.

The spring storm struck with sudden fury after months of mild weather and caught the fishing fleet off guard.

Americans' Courage Kept Boy Alive

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—A 12-year-old Indian lad, lost in heavy bush for three days in wilderness country near the B.C.-Yukon border, says the survival of two Americans for more than 40 days without food gave him courage.

Andy Lutz of Upper Lland said in hospital: "I was sure hungry, but I heard about these people being without food for so long and I knew I could last."

The youngster, treated for frostbite of two toes, referred to the fantastic 40-day survival of Ralph Flores, 42, and Helen Klaben, 21, after a light plane crashed in northern B.C. about 1,000 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The two Americans were en route to San Francisco from Fairbanks when the crash occurred Feb. 4. They were rescued March 25. The last 40 days they had nothing to live on but melted snow water.

party late Wednesday and brought to Whitehorse for treatment last Thursday.

News of his rescue came to light Wednesday.

The youngster said from his hospital room "I wasn't scared. I've been hunting since I was a little kid."

The first night, Andy said, he lit a fire with a match he had. He later got it out, swept the ashes aside and built a spruce bough bed above the spot.

But he failed, despite hearing a truck and trying to find the road by walking out in a large circle from the camp. The next day he went in the opposite direction without success.

"Then I got smart with myself. I backtracked myself (the third day) and that's when they found me."

Andy said the first night one of his dogs, King, slept beside him and helped to keep him warm. His other dog, Bronco, left for a while, but returned later.

The second night both dogs slept with the boy and kept him warm.

Andy, who wore a parka, heavy pants and moccasins, said Bronco ate his lunch when he put it down to chase a rabbit the first day out.

Last Wednesday he shot a squirrel with his .22-calibre rifle and ate it raw. "It was sure funny to eat and it sort of made me kinda sick."

The boy was cared for by the same nurses at Watson Lake who treated Flores and Miss Klaben when they were rescued.

Cuba Exiles Break with U.S.

A spokesman for the Cuban Revolutionary Council, recognized by Washington as a voice for the estimated 250,000 Cuban refugees in this country, bitterly attacked Washington "leaks" as to purported motives for the break.

An administration source told capital newsmen that council president Jose Miro Cardona has asked for $50,000,000 to train a new anti-Castro army, or, as an alternative, a key role in future U.S. anti-Castro planning.

The council spokesman said bluntly Washington sought to discredit Miro because of the administration's inability to get him to change his mind about the break.

The powerful exile group decided to break with the administration because of its recent ban on the use of armed force against the Castro regime and regulations restricting the travel rights in this country of anti-Castro leaders.

The revolutionary council in a night-long meeting here decided unanimously to reject Miro's offer to resign the council presidency.

It supported his condemnation of the Kennedy administration and vowed to continue the fight against Castro and communism in Cuba and the hemisphere regardless of the official U.S. policy.

Satellite

2,470 Orbits So Far

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence research board reported Wednesday that its Alouette satellite travelled 71,500,000 miles in 2,470 orbits around the earth in its first six months of operation.

The satellite, launched Sept. 28, 1962, from a California base, had transmitted 212,000 ionograms in 1,080 hours of telemetry operation up to March 29. It had responded to 6,500 separate commands from ground stations and there had been no need to use any of the spare equipment aboard the satellite, such as extra batteries.

Deadly Cancer in Children Yields to Triple Treatment

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—One deadly cancer in children is yielding now to a triple treatment, a cancer doctor reports.

An antibiotic, surgery and radiation are destroying all visible signs of Wilms' tumor of the kidney in 81 per cent of child victims, said Dr. Sidney Farber of Boston.

The apparent cure rate of the kidney cancer had recently risen to 40 per cent through surgery and radiation. But 60 per cent of children still died.

mainly because the cancer had spread to their lungs. Now the antibiotic, actinomycin D, has joined the battle. For the first time, all signs of a solid tumor in children are being eliminated fairly regularly.

Eighty-one per cent of youngsters receiving the combined treatment between 1957 and 1960 are alive and well.

Sports Swimming Pool Approved for Nanaimo

NANAIMO—City council has approved a proposal by the Kinsmen Club to build a 25-metre international standard swimming pool here. The club will pay for plans and construction while the city will provide water, sewer and electrical services, roadways and parking.

The pool will be administered by the city properties commission. Two previous attempts to have a pool constructed in Nanaimo failed due to lack of funds.

NANAIMO—Fred Drew, charged with conspiring to commit a fraud, Wednesday chose trial by judge and jury. He is charged with conspiring with a J. H. Ogden to commit fraud on William George Parish between July 30 and Aug. 22 last year.

ALBERNI—The city of Alberni had a surplus of $17,500.85 at the end of the year's operations, according to a financial report presented to council by Ald. C. M. Blair Monday.

It was explained revenue exceeded the estimates by $18,500.81 and expenditures had been $7,500.24 less the amount estimated.

DUNCAN—The battle of Vimy Ridge was commemorated by 45 First World War veterans at a traditional dinner at the Legion Hall here. Second War War veterans served the food, prepared by members of the Women's Auxiliary.

In charge was Legion vice-president Norman Maynard and Mrs. William Murphy was responsible for serving. Entertainment was provided by Charles Bandrich, Jim Black and Able Joe. Art Man led the sing song.

DUNCAN—About 250 members of 10 Duncan organizations will take part in the second annual friendship bazaar April 27 here, under the pioneer theme this year. It is hoped Quinichan Indian carver Simon Charlie will display some of his work.

Organizer Mrs. W. H. Ramnar said a group of Nanaimo women will stage a bus city friendship bazaar at the Eagle's Hall here today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

NANAIMO—City council will look into the question of reducing the age limit for pool halls from 18 to 16.

Mayor Pete Maffeo said the matter warranted investigation after local pool hall operators pleaded to council the present age limit is unreasonable and depriving them of business.

Ald. Douglas Greer commented he had never been in a pool hall, while Ald. Dan MacDonald said he had been a customer in his youth and expected to visit pool halls in the future.

DUNCAN—Looking for ways to attract more public interest, members of the Duncan and District Retarded Children's Association formed a small discussion group at their recent meeting.

Suggestions called for professional guest speakers, compiling of the local school's history, teachers' reports on teaching techniques and individual children's advancement, and more displays of students' work.

The local association will consider sponsoring summer camps and swimming lessons for the children. It was reported a bowling program proved very successful. The annual fund-raising campaign this year is headed by Will Dobson. The campaign at the beginning of May will coincide with the Retarded Children's Week.

NANAIMO—Complete returns from 156 polling stations in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands have been tabulated. The final figures give Colin Cameron, NDP, 12,214; W. F. Matthews, PC, 6,486; Douglas Greer, L, 6,433; and Douglas Dane, Social Credit, 2,223.

DUNCAN—BCMP said they arrested two juveniles who were breaking into parking meters Tuesday night. They were remained in custody until their parents are located.

DUNCAN—Social assistance disbursed from the City of Duncan during March came to $4,677. The 1962 total for the same month was $4,065, and in 1961, $4,730.

PORT ALBERNI—Improved methods of logging will reduce trouble in Port Alberni's watershed, according to a report given by Mayor Loran Jordan after a tour by the council of the area as guests of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

Early planting after logging, full-planting, juvenile thinning, stand rehabilitation, alder con-

The fact settings are cleaned of branches and chunks will prevent streams becoming clogged with debris. It was reported.

During the tour, council members suggested sidehill logging roads be drained to take muddy water into the forest floor rather than allowing it to run directly into streams of the watershed.

DUNCAN—March building permits in the city increased to $15,500 from $12,150 during the same period last year. Three-month total this year is $40,341, last year it was $39,765.

DUNCAN—Mechanic Harry Chadwick, of Duncan, was taken to King's Daughters' Hospital with minor in-

Forestry Program

Impact Felt In 10 Years

PORT ALBERNI—Effect of the intensive MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. forestry program will be felt here within 10 years, Dave Turner, production manager for logging operations of the firm, told the recent Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Mr. Turner, who holds a master degree in forestry, told of the seven phases in the $5,000,000 program which can be translated into approximately 140,000,000 board feet additional annual cut, providing expanded industry income for B.C. and permanent employment for more than 300 people throughout the company's operations.

Full implementation of the program will require about 60 new full-time employees, including nine professional foresters, and an additional 60 part-time tree planters, Mr. Turner said.

Speaking of phase six of the program—the planting of deciduous trees—he told of the first planting in this area on the river flats west of Taylor River arm on the west coast highway during March of this year.

MILK-BONE satisfies the bone hunger of your dog

A dog needs to chew, and knows it. In the absence of a bone, even the best-trained dog will find something else to chew—often something he shouldn't. But there are few bones in today's kitchens. Many that are available are not safe or good for your dog. That's why the modern dog goes bone-hungry. The answer is MILK-BONE—the biscuit with the real bone shape that makes wonderful chewing, without a real bone's tendency to splinter or upset the digestion. MILK-BONE also gives your dog all the important nourishment found in milk, meat, bone-meat and vegetables. Get MILK-BONE in the biscuit size that suits the size of your dog—regular or large.

Family Help Favored

COURTENAY—Strong public support has been reported for a proposed homemaker service here.

The service will provide home care for families in which the mother is either sick or absent due to physical or mental illness.

Cost will be borne by the family where financially possible or with aid from the government's welfare service and the service.

This fall the service hopes to obtain funds through membership in the United Good Neighbor fund. In the meantime, the committee is planning a spring frolic April 20 to raise initial funds.

The homemaker service committee comprises Dr. G. A. Gibson, director of public health, Dr. G. L. Threl, lawyer, Roy Pous, Mrs. Myrtle Vickberg, public health nurse Mrs. T. Berry, welfare worker Mrs. N. Walmsley, and Mr. L. Jean Lovelock from RCAF Station, Comox.

Duncan Takes First Step With Planning Advisers

DUNCAN—City council has taken the first step toward city planning and given two readings to a bylaw outlining the scope of a special new committee which will function in an advisory capacity.

The committee will consist of W. M. Hudson, J. L. Whitmore, J. J. Kerrone, H. G. Neal, R. D. Howard and three ex-officio members, Russell Potter, city engineer; Gordon Berry, chief administrative officer; and J. D. Benson, city solicitor.

The committee will be required to study the present zoning of the city and future planning, and will report back to the council.

Plans for a proposed overpass at Calvermore across Canada Avenue and the E and N railroad, which would alleviate the level crossing at Sherman Road, will be passed on to North Cowichan municipality for comment.

The overpass would be about 3,000 feet north of James Street and 1,000 feet south of Sherman Road. The project would involve North Cowichan municipality, the provincial government, the E and N Railway Co. and the city of Duncan.

The city's share for the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau is $500.

Council members decided to match every dollar the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce raises, up to a total of $500. The chamber's share is the same.

Proposals that people outside the city connect to the city sewage system was turned down, as against policy.

Council also:

- Debated a patrol to halt parking meter thefts.
- Raised wages for eight city office workers by four per cent retroactive to Jan. 1.
- Rejected closure of the Nagle Street extension for a playground.
- Gave $25 to Duncan Girl Guides and $25 to the Cowichan music festival.

Imported Corned Beef

Hair Found in Can Second Time Here

For the second time in just over two weeks a can of imported corned beef has turned out to be a hairy experience for a Victoria housewife.

The surprised housewife this time was Mrs. Marjorie Leach, 1433 Bay.

Mrs. Robert Fowler, 3851, Esplanade Drive, found in a can of imported corned beef 23 a piece of hide and matted animal hair.

Mrs. Leach was making lunch sandwiches Wednesday for her husband and son Ernest, 21.

"I started to slice the meat and couldn't get my knife through it," she said. "Then I saw what looked like the eyeballs of a cow and the half-round section of the lid, and a lot of black hairs."

"My son said he didn't want any more canned meat," she said. "My husband said to just throw it away."

"But I didn't. I took it back to the store and got my money back. I have another can here. I haven't opened yet. I hope it's all right."

The membership of his organization, the B.C. Hereford Association, grew from two in 1880 to 331 in 1962.

In order to achieve this aim, the mayor indicated, probation services will have to be increased in Greater Victoria.

Mayor Wilson said it was clear from the meeting with Dr. Kennedy that local municipalities must be prepared to provide additional facilities for a central office and registry for both court and probation services.

This might be possible, he added, by enlarging the present quarters occupied by the court in the health and welfare building on Cook Street instead of constructing a new building.

The present joint court facilities are shared by Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay. Esquimalt so far has refused to join, but it appears the government can force it to establish a family and juvenile court facilities up to the provincial standard.

CONSULTED FIRST

Reeve Wurtele said Esquimalt feels strongly that if the government wished to make new legislation of this type it should have first consulted the municipalities.

"We are a tight little district," the reeve said, "our police know a great deal about Esquimalt and the people who live there."

"We have our own juvenile court that works extremely well. All our policemen are juvenile officers and while we have no probation officer the police provide a probation service. Many of them know the parents as well as the youngsters involved."

Reeve Wurtele said the present system allowed quick disposal of cases and moved time of police and witnesses who would otherwise have to travel to Victoria and face possible remand.

He also described Robinson's room, with blood splattered over a great area of wall and virtually to the ceiling in places and with the bed lamp and shade at the head of the bed "badly scarred and blackened."

He told of finding a mattress on the ground outside where it had been put after flames apparently put out the fire, and of finding "a piece of material which appeared to be a piece of pillow heavily laden with blood" on it.

Det. Stewart testified he found the mattress smoldering later and that, when he first found the mattress, it was "not as badly burned as it is right now, but it was badly burned on both sides."

SPOTS ON LEGS

He said police also found a pair of tan corduroy trousers, with bloodspots on the legs, thrown on the grass elsewhere and he identified a pair produced in court as the same trousers.

He testified Dootson had told him Dootson had such a pair of trousers but had thrown them away because they were too big. Dealing with an iron bar produced in court earlier, the detective said Dootson said he had had such a bar but had thrown it away some two weeks before.

Easter Exodus Made Easier

Victorians will have increased travel facilities for their Easter holidays.

B.C. government ferries between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen will double their schedules by providing hourly service, both ways 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, from today until Monday.

Trans-Canada Air Lines will substitute a 118-seat Viking

A TCA spokesman said today's, Friday's and Sunday's flights have almost been booked to capacity.

Vancouver Island Coach

Lines have doubled their Vancouver service and yesterday reported a "heavy run." Their schedule runs parallel to the B.C. government ferry schedule.

For the rest of Vancouver Island routes, regular service is being maintained, but extra buses will be added whenever needed.

B.C. government ferry service from Departure Bay to Horseshoe Bay is adding four trips each way from today to Monday, with the Coach Lines following suit. This represents a 50-per-cent increase in service.

Washington State Ferries on their Sidney-Anacortes run will not add extra sailings, it was reported.

Family Court Rules

Esquimaltirate Over 'Silence'

Esquimalt is still completely in the dark as to what will be required of it under new provincial regulations governing family and juvenile courts, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said yesterday.

The reeve was among representatives of Greater Victoria municipalities who met deputy attorney-general Gilbert Kennedy this week to seek further information on the responsibilities of local authorities under the new act.

"I came out not knowing any more about the situation than I did when I went in to the meeting," Reeve Wurtele said. "I asked a question but didn't get a satisfactory answer. I might as well have stayed home."

Mayor R. B. Wilson, who headed the intermunicipal delegation, said earlier financial responsibilities of municipalities still have to be clarified.

But he added the new system, under which B.C. has full control over the family and juvenile courts and probation services, appears to be a "step forward" with emphasis on settlement of problems out of court.

INCREASE SEEN

In order to achieve this aim, the mayor indicated, probation services will have to be increased in Greater Victoria.

Mayor Wilson said it was clear from the meeting with Dr. Kennedy that local municipalities must be prepared to provide additional facilities for a central office and registry for both court and probation services.

Exams Start Tuesday

Students at Victoria University will attend the final lectures of the winter session today.

The university will be closed for the long weekend from Friday until Tuesday, but it will not be a holiday for conscientious students.

The final examinations begin Tuesday.

The exams, which last an average of three hours each, will run until May 4.

After the exams the students will split up. Some will take permanent jobs, some will travel but most will find summer work to finance next year's studies.

The students plan to celebrate the end of exams with a dance in the evening of May 4 in the Curling Rink.

Saanich Detective Testifies

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

The charred, blood-spattered remains of a mattress were introduced as evidence Wednesday in the trial of Peter Howard Dootson on a charge of attempted murder.

Dootson, a psychiatric nurse's aide at the Colquhoun Mental Home, is charged with attempting to murder fellow employee Robert Robinson Oct. 19 by beating him with a blunt instrument and setting fire to him.

In earlier court Saanich detective Robin Stewart described seeing Robinson with his head bloody and swollen when Det. Stewart arrived to investigate the case Oct. 19.

Near Ceiling

He also described Robinson's room, with blood splattered over a great area of wall and virtually to the ceiling in places and with the bed lamp and shade at the head of the bed "badly scarred and blackened."

He told of finding a mattress on the ground outside where it had been put after flames apparently put out the fire, and of finding "a piece of material which appeared to be a piece of pillow heavily laden with blood" on it.

Det. Stewart testified he found the mattress smoldering later and that, when he first found the mattress, it was "not as badly burned as it is right now, but it was badly burned on both sides."

Spots on Legs

He said police also found a pair of tan corduroy trousers, with bloodspots on the legs, thrown on the grass elsewhere and he identified a pair produced in court as the same trousers.

He testified Dootson had told him Dootson had such a pair of trousers but had thrown them away because they were too big. Dealing with an iron bar produced in court earlier, the detective said Dootson said he had had such a bar but had thrown it away some two weeks before.

At Incinerator

Louis Van Hecke, another employee at the home, testified Dootson had asked him where one would hit a man to knock him out.

Det. Stewart said the night Robinson was hurt he had noticed Dootson in a mental home hallway. The detective said he noticed only Dootson was in street clothes. Every one else was nude but for towels or shorts.

The detective said that, on Oct. 22, when he was driving Dootson to the city police courtroom, Dootson asked him: "How is Robbie today?"

The detective testified: "I stated, 'Not very good.'"

"The accused stated: 'Good. I hope the old b... dies. Then they can hang me and get this over with.'"

Two others who had been in the car, another Saanich

police officer and Saanich court reporter Thomas Nisbet, also testified, quoting Dootson as virtually the same effect.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Alan Bigelow, Mr. Nisbet said he didn't see Dootson's face when the remark was made and "I imagine it's possible" Dootson meant it in a joking way.

Mr. Bigelow asked whether Det. Stewart "is quite a joker and a comedian."

Small Sample

"At times," said Mr. Nisbet. During an evening session of the court, Edwin John Fennell, Vancouver police analyst, testified he had examined the trousers found near the mental home and found them and a small sample clipped from them, to have stains of what proved to be human blood.

He testified he also examined stains, identified as having been scraped from three walls of Robinson's room.

Human Blood

One, he said, was type B human blood and the other two were human blood of which he could not determine the type.

He also testified about examining a pair of shoes. Earlier testimony was that Det. Stewart had removed the shoes from Dootson's room.

He said feathers adhering to the shoes, and a small piece of charred fabric adhering to one, were similar to feathers and fabric found on the piece of material previously identified as the one Det. Stewart found with the mattress.

Under cross-examination, he termed the type of feather very common.

Exhibit Six

He said: "I couldn't say definitely that they come from exhibit six (the piece of material)."

He said he also examined the iron bar and found on it traces of blood which were, however, so small that he was unable to identify the type, even as to whether it was human.

Several members of the Saanich police department gave evidence similar to parts of Det. Stewart's.

Presentation of evidence ended last night. Arguments by crown counsel Alan Baker and defence counsel Alan Bigelow, and Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins' charge to the jury are due today.

Only the Wild West Is Missing Here

Rural Vancouver Island—By Klaus Muentner

COWICHAN VALLEY—Beef-cattle ranching on Vancouver Island and in the last frontier of the "wild west," the Chilcotin, is closely related—but it isn't the same.

Basic difference is the vastness of the rolling grazing country in the cattle kingdom of central British Columbia and the smaller meadows on parklike Vancouver Island.

One of the few beef cattle-men here who operate full-time is retired civil engineer Tom Groves who, together with his university graduate wife, started to raise Hereford breeding stock at Westholme 12 years ago.

Unlike a Chilcotin ranch's 4,000 head of cattle, the couple's 30 cows, two herd bulls and some 30-odd young stock receive individual attention, and all adult animals are halter-broken.

Mr. Groves said the first Hereford offspring from his ranch still had the wild restlessness of range cattle but now none of the "critters" leave his ranch without being halter-broken and tamed.

He explains most of his breeding cows are direct descendants from the famous bull Atok Lionheart, imported by Col. Spencer from Britain 20 years ago.

Also imported is the patriarch of the ranch, Weston Marquie, and his younger cousin, Mount Sicker Jubilent, was sired by another British import, Westside Jubilent.

Mighty cedars and fir frame the 70 acres of sweeping meadows which are the grazing potential of the 300-acre ranch; to accommodate 23 adult Herefords in the Chilcotin, at least 600 acres of grazing land would be necessary.

Mr. Groves said: "With the very limited acreage of suit-able grassland, a beef breeder on the island must make sure he has the best of stock to make the venture worthwhile."

He said it is better to start with a small number of animals to determine the capacity of the land than vice versa.

Most of his animals are sold on Vancouver Island, but he marketed some at the recent annual Kamloops bull sale.

The membership of his organization, the B.C. Hereford Association, grew from two in 1880 to 331 in 1962.

At the 54th annual provincial bull sale, 30 were sold at an average of $156, compared with the 44th sale in 1962 when 128 bulls were marketed at an average price of $721.

Situated in a perfect setting for this type of operation, Mr. Groves has a very distinct advantage over his counterparts in the scenic Chilcotin — he never has to rough it.

The heat of the branding fire, intensified by a dry and hot summer day, is unknown on the Westholme ranch.

However, also absent are the colorful cattle drives, the roundup of thousands of white-faced Herefords and the experience of riding the range with cowhands who were practically born in the saddle.

A DEBATE between Cowichan and Cobble Hill 4-H groups will take place at the board room of the Cowichan Exhibition April 19. Subjects for the debate are: Stanchion barns are better than loafing barns, and bunker silos are better than upright silos.

Eight youngsters participating are members of the Cowichan Jersey, Cowichan Holstein and the Cobble Hill 4-H clubs.

Judges are Mrs. Donald Morton, J. S. Allen supervising agriculturalist, and the local manager of Buckersfields, R. Mellalieu.

Another witness, Kenneth Dickinson, an employee of the mental home, told of finding the bar Oct. 31 at an incinerator at the home.

Louis Van Hecke, another employee at the home, testified Dootson had asked him

Heart Attack Hits Vanier

... mild seizure

Word of Gen. Vanier's illness was not disclosed until last night, when it was learned he has cancelled all public engagements for the next six weeks.

However, Government House sources stressed the 74-year-old major-general was quite capable of carrying on the official duties of his office.

IF NECESSARY

These, they admitted, could include a visit from Prime Minister Diefenbaker if necessary and swearing-in of a new cabinet if Liberal leader Lester Pearson is called upon to form a government.

The prime minister was not available for a statement on the illness of the white-haired general who has captured the affection of Canadians during his term of office.

Mr. Pearson expressed "great shock" at hearing of the governor-general's heart attack.

Douglas:

We'll Work This Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Rule changes to increase Parliament's efficiency were proposed Wednesday night by the leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties and by a leading Liberal.

Both T. C. Douglas of the NDP and Robert Thompson of Social Credit also expressed hope for stability of government despite the uncertain results of Monday's federal elections.

MORATORIUM

"I think we're going to work this out," said Mr. Douglas. Mr. Thompson added that there should be a moratorium on elections and a "working arrangement" in Parliament.

They appeared on the CBC television network program Newsweek along with Walter Gordon, re-elected in Toronto Devonport, and considered a likely choice for the finance portfolio in any new Liberal government.

JOBS FIRST

Questioned about the initial program of a new Liberal government, Mr. Gordon said the priority would be given to measures to stimulate the economy and provide more jobs.

Liberal Leader Pearson's campaign promise to set up a municipal development bank would be one of the first pieces of legislation to be brought into Parliament, Mr. Gordon said.

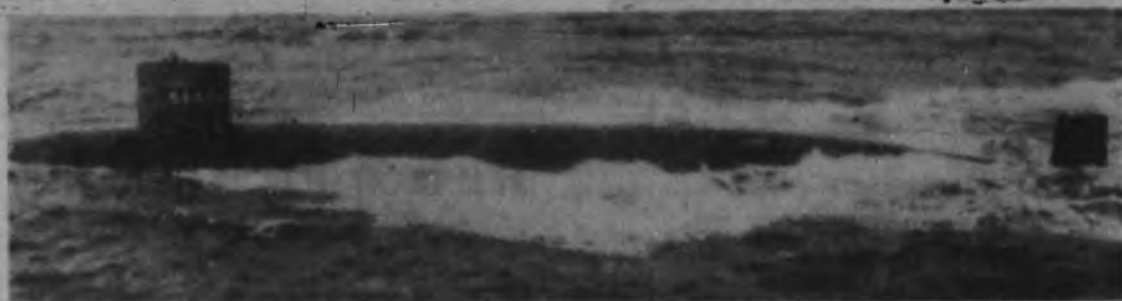

UNTIL WINTER

"If we don't do it now—within the next few weeks—its effects will not begin to be felt until next winter."

In brief statements concluding the 30-minute interview program, Mr. Douglas stressed the need of measures to provide jobs and Mr. Thompson said one of the key requirements in leadership in Parliament.

ALL HOPE GONE FOR 129 IN SUB

Missing Nuclear Sub Passed This Earlier Test

Slick 'Means Disaster'

BOSTON (UPI)—Capt. Blish Hills, commandant of the first U.S. Naval District, here, said Wednesday night an oil slick indicates the submarine met with disaster.

"The oil slick is the thing that's the tipoff we have a disaster here," he said.

He said the fact the oil slick was in the vicinity of the vessel's last known position indicated to officials it came from the Thresher.

NEVER A RESCUE

Capt. Hills said if rescue operations were possible a diving bell could descend to about 1,000 feet. But he said this was merely the capability of the bell and there had never been a rescue at that depth.

The Thresher is believed to have gone down in waters about 8,400 feet deep. Hills said the lack of communication with the Thresher virtually eliminated all hope for the men aboard.

He said it had not been ruled out that the oil slick might have been released by Thresher's commander as an emergency signal to surface vessels.

Under emergency conditions, he said, a sub commander might take any measures he saw fit to attempt to communicate with potential rescuers.

But this likelihood was slim.

Tragic Chronicle

Loss Worse Than War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The worst recorded submarine disaster, the wartime sinking of the USS Argonaut by the Japanese in 1943, cost the lives of 103 men—28 fewer than are aboard the missing Thresher.

Two other U.S. submarines have gone to untimely ends in New England waters north of the area where the search for the Thresher was going on. These were the Squalus, which sank off Portsmouth, N.H., in 1939 with a loss of 26 lives, and the O-9 which sank in a test dive off Maine in 1941 with 33 fatalities.

British System

Two Cabinets Pearson Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Confident he will soon be asked to form a government, Liberal leader Pearson said Wednesday he plans to begin fashioning his ministry this weekend.

This delicate task of matching talents with the need for geographical and religious balance in the cabinet likely will extend into next week, aides indicated.

INNER OUTER

It is understood Mr. Pearson will attempt a new governmental structure, involving a larger number of portfolios and at the same time an "inner" and "outer" cabinet.

This would be comparable to the British system that he is known to regard highly.

FIVE AND 10

The inner cabinet could mean a working policy group with Mr. Pearson and between five and 10 of his top ministers.

Diefenbaker Watching And Waiting

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker flew back to Ottawa Wednesday and said he intends to "meet the cabinet and watch developments."

"I will determine on the basis of coming events the course to be followed," he said. "You will have to wait for the eventualities to unfold what they are."

Mac-Powell Profit 'Embarrassing'

VANCOUVER (CP)—An often bullheaded former logger made a quiet pitch Wednesday for the "loyal group" of employees of Mac-Millan, Blodell and Powell River Ltd.

Gordon Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, suggested to company chairman J. V. Cline at the company's annual meeting that Mac-Powell consider a share-purchase plan for employees.

"Our profits have risen to almost an embarrassing level," Mr. Gibson said. "We need as many shareholders in B.C. as possible. I suggest a distribution of shares to our employees, the most loyal group of employees any company ever had."

Mr. Cline said the company had no intention at present of acquiring any large company.

The company had given a great deal of study to employee profit-sharing plans and contract logging was company policy.

He said he felt no embarrassment at Mac-Powell's profits—$36,081,808 in 1962.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An often bullheaded former logger made a quiet pitch Wednesday for the "loyal group" of employees of Mac-Millan, Blodell and Powell River Ltd.

Gordon Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, suggested to company chairman J. V. Cline at the company's annual meeting that Mac-Powell consider a share-purchase plan for employees.

"Our profits have risen to almost an embarrassing level," Mr. Gibson said. "We need as many shareholders in B.C. as possible. I suggest a distribution of shares to our employees, the most loyal group of employees any company ever had."

Mr. Cline said the company had no intention at present of acquiring any large company.

The company had given a great deal of study to employee profit-sharing plans and contract logging was company policy.

He said he felt no embarrassment at Mac-Powell's profits—$36,081,808 in 1962.

Mac-Powell Profit 'Embarrassing'

Canada Ready To Help

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy said Wednesday night ships of the Atlantic Command were standing by in case the U.S. Navy asks for Canadian assistance in the search for the missing atomic submarine Thresher.

Also ready to sail was the British submarine Auriga, based here.

Bold Pilot Lands in Tunnel

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A crippled plane with a heavy pilot sliced through a 115,000-volt power line, thrashed along above a busy highway and zipped into a mountain highway tunnel to land Wednesday after its engine failed over the Rocky Mountains.

Pilot Fritz Hansen, 33, of Cheyenne, Wyo., escaped with cuts and bruises. Passenger Walter Johnson, 38, of Aurora, Colo., was injured.

The engine of their Cessna 173 failed while they were flying at 1,500 feet over this mountain city 43 miles west of Denver.

Hansen said he had been flying for 13 years without incident.

Unnatural Anthem

OTTAWA (CP)—There was an embarrassing silence when the visiting mayor of Peterborough, England, asked Lakeland Preparatory School boys to sing O Canada.

They couldn't. So they sang God Save the Queen instead.

Typhoid Ended

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—The typhoid epidemic at Zermatt can be considered ended, the Swiss federal health office announced Wednesday.

It said there had been no fresh cases in the epidemic-stricken resort in the first week of this month.

16 Lost At Sea

REYKJAVIK (AP)—Gales whipped up mountainous seas off Iceland and reports reaching here Wednesday night said six fish boats have gone down with losses of at least 16 crew members.

The spring storm struck with sudden fury after months of mild weather and caught the fishing fleet off guard.

Americans' Courage Kept Boy Alive

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—A 12-year-old Indian lad, lost in heavy bush for three days in wilderness country near the B.C.-Yukon border, says the survival of two Americans for more than 60 days without food gave him courage.

Andy Lutz of Upper Liard said in hospital: "I was sure hungry, but I heard about those people being without food for so long and I knew I could last."

The youngster, treated for frostbite of two toes, referred to the fantastic 40-day survival of Ralph Flores, 42, and Helen Klaben, 21, after a light plane crashed in northern B.C. about 1,800 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The two Americans were en route to San Francisco from Fairbanks when the crash occurred Feb. 4. They were rescued March 25. The last 40 days they had nothing to live on but melted snow water.

The Lutz boy became lost early last week while rabbit hunting with his two dogs. He was found by an RCMP search party late Wednesday and brought to Whitehorse for treatment last Thursday.

News of his rescue came to light Wednesday.

The youngster said from his hospital room: "I wasn't scared. I've been hunting since I was a little kid."

The first night, Andy said, he lit a fire with a match he had. He later put it out, swept the ashes aside and built a spruce bough bed above the spot.

He didn't think he would need a fire the next day because he expected to find his way home.

But he failed, despite hearing a truck and trying to find the road by walking out in a large circle from the camp. The next day he went in the opposite direction without success.

"Then I got smart with myself. I backtracked myself (the third day) and that's when they found me."

Andy said the first night one of his dogs, King, slept beside him and helped to keep him warm. His other dog, Bronco, left for a while, but returned later.

The second night both dogs slept with the boy and kept him warm.

Andy, who wore a parka, heavy pants and moccasins, said Bronco ate his lunch when he put it down to chase a rabbit the first day out.

Last Wednesday he shot a squirrel with his .22-calibre rifle and ate it raw. "It was sure funny to eat and it sort of made me kinda sick."

The boy was cared for by the same nurses at Watson Lake who treated Flores and Miss Klaben when they were rescued.
